Study of late Anglo Saxon texts and grave monuments illuminates contemporary attitudes towards dying and the dead Pre Conquest attitudes towards the dying and the dead have major implications for every aspect of culture society and religion of the Anglo Saxon period but death bed and funerary practices have been comparatively and unjustly neglected by historical scholarship In her wide ranging analysis Dr Thompson examines such practices in the context of confessional and penitential literature wills poetry chronicles and homilies to show that complex and ambiguous ideas about death were current at all levels of Anglo Saxon society Her study also takes in grave monuments showing in particular how the Anglo Scandinavian sculpture of the ninth to the eleventh centuries may indicate not only the status but also the religious and cultural alignment of those who commissioned and made them Victoria Thompson is Lecturer in the Centre for Nordic Studies at the University of the Highlands and Islands
