demonstrating that the sea required public control at the same time as it enabled private endeavours Although this tension between private and public interests has been explored in military and economic studies questions of how the private appeared in maritime history have been discussed only through a particularly mercantile lens This volume adds a new dimension to this discussion by focusing on how privacy and the private were perceived and created by the historical agents at sea We aim to move beyond the mercantile private as a direct opposite to the public or the State thereby opening the discussion of privacy at sea as a multiplicity of lived experiences Chapters 1 8 and 14 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com
