Evidence-Based Teaching Robyn M. Gillies, 2009-01-01 Public school systems are now under increasing pressure to close achievement gaps between the able and less able students minority and non minority students and disadvantaged students and their non disadvantaged peers Moreover there is now an expectation that schools and teachers will use those programs and practices that have been demonstrated to be efficacious through rigorous scientific research Evidence based teaching Strategies that promote learning is designed to provide teachers with an overview of the types of evidence that can be used to enhance their teaching practices It does this by documenting those practices that have been used effectively in classrooms to facilitate how teachers teach and how students learn This text is designed to make teachers aware of how to critically evaluate different types of evidence that can be used to inform their teaching practice It achieves this by making explicit the link between theory research and practice Teaching with the Common Core Standards for English Language Arts, Grades 3-5 Lesley Mandel Morrow, Karen K. Health Literacy Institute of Medicine, Board on Neuroscience and Behavioral Health, Committee on Health Literacy, 2004-06-29 To maintain their own health and the health of their families and communities consumers rely heavily on the health information that is available to them This information is at the core of the partnerships that patients and their families forge with today's complex modern health systems This information may be provided in a variety of forms ranging from a discussion between a patient and a health care provider to a health promotion advertisement a consent form or one of many other forms of health communication common in our society Yet millions of Americans cannot understand or act upon this information To address this problem the field of health literacy brings together research and practice from diverse fields including education health services and social and cultural sciences and the many organizations whose actions can improve or impede health literacy Health Literacy Prescription to End Confusion examines the body of knowledge that applies to the field of health literacy and recommends actions to promote a health literate society By examining the extent of limited health literacy and the ways to improve it we can improve the health of individuals and populations Teacher Development for Content-Based Language Education Susan Ballinger, Ruth Fielding, Diane J. Tedick, 2024-09-10 This book fills a large gap in our understanding of how to prepare teachers for the challenging but increasingly popular task of integrating content and language instruction. It brings together findings on content-based teacher education from Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, and North America in order to inform researchers and teacher educators and enable them to play a critical role in the continued success of such programs. It offers a solid grounding in theories and applications of content-based approaches with empirical studies investigating teacher identity, materials design, use of cognitive discourse functions, and best practices for teacher education. Responding to the growing popularity of content-based programs and the shortage of qualified teachers for these contexts, this book promotes teacher-researcher collaboration and provides support for trainee teachers, in-service teachers, and course leaders.

Pedagogies to Enhance Learning for Indigenous Students Robyn Jorgensen, Peter Sullivan, Peter Grootenboer, 2012-11-19 This book describes research undertaken by leading Australian researchers in Indigenous communities. While the chapters are Australian in their focus, the issues that are discussed are similar to those in other countries where there are Indigenous people. In most cases in Australia and internationally, Indigenous learners are not succeeding in school, thus making the transition into work and adulthood quite tenuous in terms of mainstream measures. The importance of being literate and numerate are critical in success in school and life in general, thus making this collection an important contribution to the international literature. The collection of works describes a wide range of projects where the focus has been on improving the literacy and numeracy outcomes for Indigenous students. The chapters take various approaches to improving these outcomes and have very different foci. These foci include aspects of literacy, numeracy, curriculum, leadership, ICTs, whole school planning, policy, linguistics, and Indigenous perspectives. Most of the chapters report on large-scale projects that have used some innovation in their focus. The book draws together these projects so that a more connected sense of the complexities and diversity of approaches can be gleaned.

Teaching and Learning High School Mathematics Charlene E. Beckmann, Denisse R. Thompson, Rheta N. Rubenstein, 2009-11-02 Too many high school students faced with mathematics in courses at the level of algebra and beyond find themselves struggling with abstract concepts and unwilling to pursue further study of mathematics. When students curtail their course-taking in mathematics, they may be impacting their college and career options. Thus, high school mathematics teachers have the responsibility to help students recognize the value and importance of mathematics while also designing instruction that makes mathematics accessible to all students Ball and Bass 2000 as well as other mathematics educators have recognized that mathematics teachers not only need to know mathematics content and mathematics pedagogy i e teaching strategies but they also need to know how these ideas are integrated This mathematical knowledge for teaching is the knowledge that teachers of mathematics need and it differs from the knowledge that research or applied mathematicians must know This text is designed to provide teachers with insights into this mathematical knowledge for teaching Teaching and Learning High School Mathematics is likely different from many other texts that you have used It integrates both content and pedagogy to help you develop and build your own understanding of teaching The text is designed to help you develop deep conceptual understanding of fundamental mathematics Ma 1999 so that you are able to approach mathematics from multiple perspectives with many tools Such flexibility in teaching is essential if teachers are to help all students become mathematically proficient Throughout this book you are encouraged to work in cooperative teams This strategy is designed to help you develop a mathematics learning community and build a professional network that will be a valuable resource during your professional career Hopefully you will experience the benefits of engaging in rich mathematical discussions with peers and consider how to encourage such learning environments in your own classrooms Lesson planning is another element pervasive throughout this text To help teachers plan for effective student centered lessons the Question Response Support QRS Guide is introduced in Lesson 1 1 and used throughout the remainder of the lessons The QRS Guide is a tool on which teachers may record tasks or questions Q for students expected and observed student responses R and teacher support S in the form of additional just enough questions to support students in their progress on the task In each unit teachers expand their repertoire of teaching and learning elements and strategies and incorporate these elements as they plan additional lesson segments In Unit 4 lesson planning is formally introduced as teachers put together elements from previous units into complete cohesive lesson plans Resources in Education, 1998

Gentrification and Bilingual Education Suzanne García-Mateus, Deborah K. Palmer, 2022-12-13 This unique volume brings together findings from six separate but interconnected studies carried out over seven years in the same small bilingual elementary school During a period of rapid gentrification in Austin Texas Hillside Elementary transformed from a predominantly Latinx under resourced and under enrolled neighborhood school with a transitional bilingual program to a two way dual language bilingual education TWBE school with a waiting list of middle class families from across the school district Chapter authors entered the context as researchers at various points along the timeline with varied theoretical lenses research questions and methodological approaches Most authors have also been parents or teachers at the school and all were deeply invested in the school community and the education of bilingual students They come together to argue that in order for a TWBE school to serve marginalized bilingual and BIPOC children and families it must work collectively toward critical consciousness Educators parents and students must learn to center the cultural linguistic and racial ethnic identities
