

Acoustic Electric Classic Cutaway

OVATION GUITAR ELECTRONICS: STATE-OF-THE-ART.

#2 of a series of technical
updates for the guitarist.

Back in the 60's, many performers began converting from electric guitars to acoustics for concert and recording work. But acoustic guitars simply couldn't project enough sound to compete with other electric instruments. The use of external mikes restricted the performer's movement, while piezoelectric element pickups on the guitar top created the twin problems of feedback and unbalanced string output.

That's why our engineers took the piezoelectric idea one step further, placing a pickup element under the saddle below each string. With 6 separate elements picking up both string and top vibration, we made music history.

In addition, we developed a built-in FET pre-amplifier and located it inside the guitar bowl for greater flexibility without feedback. Even the battery, with an expected life of 2,000 hours, is inside the bowl.

The result: Virtual elimination of feedback and string balance problems. Maximum performer convenience with balanced sound in all ranges . . . bright highs, deep lows, and equalized midrange. You simply can't expect more from an acoustic electric guitar.

Complete details about all Ovation guitars may be found in our publication, Ovation INFORMATION. Ask for it. It's free. At your Ovation dealer.

Ovation Guitars are distributed through a network of Ovation authorized dealers who are identified by an "Ovation Authorized Dealer" decal.
