How extreme events paradoxically sow the seeds of positive response and create opportunities for becoming adaptive to place Throughout our history we have dealt with extreme events sometimes adaptively by coping or even thriving with them and sometimes disastrously by repeatedly ignoring their lessons Now extreme events and disasters are increasing in frequency and severity and their signals are difficult to read In Fire and Flood Thomas Princen argues that the most useful signals may be those coming from fires and floods both historically and today This book looks to these past and present events to imagine and to construct a regenerative future Extreme events are much more than just confirmation of climate change Princen s in depth investigation of disaster response including our long term societal response goes beyond the harm and destruction the cries for better prevention and protection and the simplistic formula that with mere awareness of extreme events the world will finally combat climate change We must learn to read extreme events as signals indicating how adaptive or maladaptive our patterns of extraction consumption settlement and transport are and more generally how sustainable and just our economies are Understanding these signals will allow us to become adaptive to place and plan for a future living with fires and floods
