Robert Coen Insiders Report:

State of the World 2010 Worldwatch Institute, 2013-07-04 Many of the environmental and social problems we face today are symptoms of a deeper systemic failing a dominant cultural paradigm that encourages living in ways that are often directly counter to the realities of a finite planet This paradigm typically referred to as consumerism has already spread to cultures around the world and has led to consumption levels that are vastly unsustainable If this pattern spreads further there will be little possibility of solving climate change or other environmental problems that are poised to dramatically disrupt human civilization It will take a sustained long term effort to redirect the traditions social movements and institutions that shape consumer cultures towards becoming cultures of sustainability These institutions include schools the media businesses and governments Bringing about a cultural shift that makes living sustainably as natural as a consumer lifestyle is today will not only address urgent crises like climate change it could also tackle other symptoms like extreme income inequity obesity and social isolation that are not typically seen as environmental problems State of the World 2010 paints a picture of what this sustainability culture could look like and how we can and already are making the shift Marketing Information Michael R. we can and must act now From Jefferson to Eisenhower presidents from both parties have warned us of the danger of letting a closed narrow group of business and government officials concentrate power over our lives Yet today a small and unrepresentative group of people is making vital decisions for all of us But this crisis is only a symptom Lapp argues It s a symptom of thin democracy something done to us or for us not by or with us Such democracy is always at risk of being stolen by private interests or extremist groups left and right But there is a solution The answer says Lapp is Living Democracy a powerful yet often invisible citizens revolution surging in communities across America It s not random disjointed activism but the emergence of a new historical stage of democracy in which Americans realize that democracy isn t something we have but something we do Either we live it or lose it says Lapp
