Privacy on the Line Whitfield Diffie, Susan Eva Landau, 1998 Telecommunication has never been perfectly secure as a Cold War culture of wiretaps and international spying taught us Yet many of us still take our privacy for granted even as we become more reliant than ever on telephones computer networks and electronic transactions of all kinds Whitfield Diffie and Susan Landau argue that if we are to retain the privacy that characterized face to face relationships in the past we must build the means of protecting that privacy into our communication systems Diffie and Landau strip away the hype surrounding the policy debate to examine the national security law enforcement commercial and civil liberties issues They discuss the social function of privacy how it underlies a democratic society and what happens when it is lost

Crypto-Politics Linda Monsees, 2019-07-19 This book examines current debates about the politics of technology and the future of democratic practices in the digital era The volume centres on the debates on digital encryption in Germany and the USA during the aftermath of Edward Snowden's leaks which revolved around the value of privacy and the legitimacy of surveillance practices. Using a discourse analysis of mass media and specialist debates, it shows how these are closely interlinked with technological controversies and how, as a result, contestation emerges not within one public sphere but within multiple expert circles. The book develops the notion of publicness in order to grasp the political significance of these controversies, thereby making an innovative contribution to Critical Security Studies by introducing digital encryption as an important site for understanding the broader debates on cyber security and surveillance. This book will be of much interest to students of critical security studies, science and technology studies, and International Relations.

Privacy Research and Best Practices National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Computer Science and Telecommunications Board, Committee for a Workshop on Privacy for the Intelligence Community: Emerging Technologies, Academic and Industry Research, and Best Practices, 2016-02-24. Recent disclosures about the bulk collection of domestic phone call records and other signals intelligence programs have stimulated widespread debate about the implications of such practices for the civil liberties and privacy of Americans. In the wake of these disclosures, many have identified a need for the intelligence community to engage more deeply with outside privacy experts and stakeholders. At the request of the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine convened a workshop to address the privacy implications of emerging technologies, public and individual preferences, and attitudes toward privacy and ethical approaches to data collection and use. This report summarizes discussions between experts from academia and the private sector and from the intelligence community on private sector best practices and privacy research results.
