Another Day in the Monkey's Brain Ralph Siegel, 2012-06-25 ANOTHER DAY IN THE MONKEY'S BRAIN charts a neuroscientist's journey to understand the central mysteries of consciousness. Dr. Siegel began his career in the neurophysiology of vision in the 1980s just when the field was coming into focus with the advent of new computing and imaging technologies. As a pioneer in the technique of mesoscopic imaging, he worked with some of the giants in vision science: Torsten Wiesel, Francis Crick, Tom Albright, and many others. With insight and clarity, he shows how science is built on such relationships. Along the way, he gives a vivid sense of the abundant passion and creativity that drive scientists in their pursuit of understanding. From monkey to man, Dr. Siegel finds the beauty in the scientific discovery of self in mind and brain.

The ^AMonkey Wars Deborah Blum, 1995-12-14 The controversy over the use of primates in research admits of no easy answers. We have all benefited from the medical discoveries of primate research: vaccines for polio, rubella, and hepatitis B are just a few. But we have also learned more in recent years about how intelligent apes and monkeys really are: they can speak to us with sign language, they can even play video games, and are as obsessed with the games as any human teenager. And activists have also uncovered widespread and unnecessarily callous treatment of animals by researchers. In 1982, a Silver Spring lab was charged with 17 counts of animal cruelty. It is a complex issue made more difficult by the combative stance of both researchers and animal activists. In The Monkey Wars, Deborah Blum gives a human face to this often caustic debate and an all-but-human face to the subjects of the struggle: the chimpanzees and monkeys themselves. Blum crisscrosses America to show us first-hand the issues and personalities involved. She offers a wide-ranging, informative look at animal rights activists, now numbering some twelve million, from the moderate Animal Welfare Institute to the highly radical Animal Liberation Front, a group destructive enough to be placed on the FBI's terrorist list. And she interviews a wide variety of researchers many forced to conduct their work protected by barbed wire and alarm systems men and women for whom death threats and hate mail are common She takes us to Roger Fouts's research center in Ellensburg Washington where we meet five chimpanzees trained in human sign language and we visit LEMSIP a research facility in New York State that has no barbed wire no alarms and no protesters chanting outside because its director Jan Moor Jankowski listens to activists with respect and treats his animals humanely And along the way Blum offers us insights into the many side issues involved the intense battle to win over school kids fought by both sides and the danger of transplanting animal organs into humans As it stands now Blum concludes the research community and its activist critics are like two different nations nations locked in a long bitter seemingly intractable political standoff But if you listen hard there really are people on both sides willing to accept and work within the complex middle When they can be freely heard then we will have progressed to another place beyond this time of hostilities In The Monkey Wars Deborah Blum gives these people their voice

Globalization of Chinese Food Sidney Cheung, David Y. H. Wu, 2012-11-12. Does Chinese food taste the same in different parts of the world? What has happened to the Chinese diet in mainland China, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Macau? What has affected the foodways of Chinese communities in other Asian countries with large Chinese diasporic communities? What has made Chinese food popular in Australia, Indonesia, the Philippines and Japan? What has brought about the adoption and adaptation of western food and changes in Chinese diets in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Peking? By considering the practice of globalization, this volume of essays by well-known anthropologists from many locales in Asia describes changes, variations and innovations to Chinese food in many parts of the world, paying particular attention to questions related to how foods are introduced, maintained, localised and reinvented according to changing lifestyles and social tastes.
