

Good afternoon Distinguished guests, Graduates, Ladies and Gentlemen:

On behalf of my classmates, I would like to welcome everyone and thank all the family members and friends who are here today to recognize our graduation from the Oakland County Sheriff Corrections Academy.

I would like to thank Supervisor Bennington, Sargeant Schimmel and especially the many instructors that trained us throughout the academy.

To my classmates, I offer congratulations. We are Oakland County Sheriff Deputies.

As several of you already know, our lives will be changed as we carry this new title. From this point forward, we will be in the public eye like never before. Every decision we make and action we take will potentially be open to intense scrutiny. Recent events throughout our country have proved this and our instructors have impressed this upon us throughout the academy. We do not have the luxury of expecting respect just because we are law enforcement officers. We will have to work hard each and every day to earn that respect. Our words and actions must show everyone that we are looking out for their best interests. We must remember that law enforcement is a service profession. It is our responsibility to protect and serve, not only those inside our walls but those outside these walls as well. We must try our best to never take action based on emotion.

As Oakland County Sheriff Deputies, we are not only responsible for protecting the public and the inmates in our custody. We also have an obligation to each other much like brothers and sisters. We must take it upon ourselves to support and protect one another. Inside this department, we need to watch out for uniformed officers as well as our civilian staff. It is my hope that this support, respect and protection we offer one another here will have far reaching effects out into the communities we serve.

I do not know what brought each of you to the Oakland County Sheriff, or what each of you hopes to accomplish during your career in the department but I

Making Policing More Affordable George Gascon, 2011-05 Public expenditure on policing in the U S more than quadrupled between 1982 and 2006 This report tries to create space for a careful conversation about the challenge of paying for policing It starts by asking two questions First what is driving up police expend Are police departments growing and providing more services to more people are the costs of providing these same services simply going up or are other factors responsible for the increase Second what have cities and their residents received in return for their investment in policing Are there fewer crimes a greater sense of safety and more satisfaction with police services What has happened to the bottom line in policing Illus This is a print on demand report

Detroit Joe T. Darden, Richard W. Thomas, 2013-03-01 Episodes of racial conflict in Detroit form just one facet of the city s storied and legendary history and they have sometimes overshadowed the less widely known but equally important occurrence of interracial cooperation in seeking solutions to the city s problems The conflicts also present many opportunities to analyze learn from and interrogate the past in order to help lay the groundwork for a stronger more equitable future This astute and prudent history poses a number of critical questions Why and where have race riots occurred in Detroit How has the racial climate changed or remained the same since the riots What efforts have occurred since the riots to reduce racial inequality and conflicts and to build bridges across racial divides Unique among books on the subject Detroit pays special attention to post 1967 social and political developments in the city and expands upon the much explored black white dynamic to address the influx of more recent populations to Detroit Middle Eastern Americans Hispanic Americans and Asian Americans Crucially the book explores the role of place of residence spatial mobility and spatial inequality as key factors in determining access to opportunities such as housing education employment and other amenities both in the suburbs and in the city

Zimbardo, 2002-11-21 Of the twenty three Brazilian policemen interviewed in depth for this landmark study fourteen were direct perpetrators of torture and murder during the three decades that included the 1964-1985 military regime These violence workers and the other group of atrocity facilitators who had not or claimed they had not participated directly in the violence help answer questions that haunt today's world Why and how are ordinary men transformed into state torturers and murderers How do atrocity perpetrators explain and justify their violence What is the impact of their murderous deeds on them on their victims and on society What memories of their atrocities do they admit and which become public history

The Psychological Effects of Police Work Philip Bonifacio, 2013-11-21 SOME DISCLAIMERS It is somewhat unusual to begin a book by declaring what it is not but the topic of police behavior is so complex that it requires the writer to state as early as possible the limits of what he has written here to describe and explain a police officer's experience In order for the reader to get a clear idea of what areas of police behavior are to be described it is necessary to delineate those aspects of police behavior that are beyond the scope of this book First of all this book is about the psychological effects of police work on policemen male police officers Nearly all of the police officers with whom I have worked have been men so my impressions and opinions are based on the experiences of male police officers Consequently descriptions and explanations of the motivations anxieties psychological defenses and resultant behavior of police officers must be limited to policemen I believe that there are significant differences in the psychological effects of police work on men and women but this book does not address this issue
