Transparency in Assessment - Exploring the Influence of Explicit Assessment Criteria Anders Jönsson, Frans Prins, 2019-04-03 In many schools and higher education institutions it has become common practice to share assessment criteria with students Sometimes it is required for accountability purposes at other times criteria are used as a means to communicate expectations to students However the idea that explicit assessment criteria should be shared with students has been contested On the one hand research has shown that explicit criteria may positively affect student performance reduce their anxiety as well as support students use of self regulated learning strategies On the other hand there are fears that explicit criteria may have a restraining influence on students learning as well as limiting their autonomy and creativity There are also indications of students becoming more performance oriented as opposed to learning oriented when being provided with explicit assessment criteria Taken together it is not fully understood under which circumstances it is productive for student learning to share explicit assessment criteria and under which circumstances it is not In particular empirical research on the proposed negative effects of sharing criteria with learners is limited and most fears voiced in the literature are based on individual experiences and anecdotal evidence In this book we therefore bring different perspectives on transparency in assessment together in order to further our understanding of how students are influenced by the use of explicit assessment criteria A deeper understanding of the influence of explicit assessment criteria on students understanding of criteria motivation and learning is equally imperative for future research and educational practice both of which need to go beyond individual opinions and convictions

Parliamentary Debates (Hansard). Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,2013 Outsourcing the Polity Gerard McCarthy,2023-02-15 Outsourcing the Polity offers a new account of social outsourcing in post independence

Myanmar demonstrating how the bankrupt post socialist junta mediated market reform in the 1990s and 2000s and forced private and non state actors to take the burden for social welfare Informed by research during Myanmar s decade of partial civilian rule 2011 2021 Gerard McCarthy examines how ideals and practices of non state welfare can both sustain democratic resistance and undermine social reform over time Rather than expand government led social action funded by direct taxation grassroots activists and democratic leaders after 2011 variously framed government social action as ineffective undesirable and even corrosive of civic norms They instead encouraged citizens to be self reliant and support each other including during disasters Powerful tycoons filled the social gap using public philanthropy to remake their reputations and to defend their ongoing expropriation of land and state assets from potential democratic redistribution With non state social actors more important than ever following Myanmar s return to dictatorship in 2021 Outsourcing the Polity casts new light on the lasting legacies of outsourcing for distributive politics

The Ecologies of the Building Envelope Alejandro Zaera-Polo, Jeffrey Anderson, 2021-05-11 The Ecologies of the Envelope theorizes the building envelope as a literal embodiment of the social political technological and economic contingencies which have become embedded within it over the last century analyzing the historical lineages heroes and villains that helped define the complex material ecologies we see within the envelope today While the facade is one of the most thoroughly theorized elements of architecture it is also one of the most questioned since the end of the 19th century Within the discipline of architecture the traditional understanding of the facade focuses primarily on semiotic and compositional operations such as proportional laws and linguistic codes which are deployed on the building s surface In contrast to this our material and environmental theory of the envelope proposes that the exponential development of building technologies since the mid 19th century coupled with new techniques of management and regulation have diminished the compositional and ornamental capacities of the envelope in favor of material quantitative and technical performances Rather than producing a stylistic analysis of the facade we investigate the historical lineages of the performances components assembly types and material entanglements that constitute the contemporary building envelope
