Michael A. Barnhart,2021-06-15 How do you get students to engage in a historical episode or era How do you bring the immediacy and contingency of history to life Michael A Barnhart shares the secret to his award winning success in the classroom with Can You Beat Churchill which encourages role playing for immersive teaching and learning Combating the declining enrollment in humanities classes this innovative approach reminds us how critical learning skills are transmitted to students by reactivating their curiosity and problem solving abilities Barnhart provides advice and procedures both for the use of off the shelf commercial simulations and for the instructor who wishes to custom design a simulation from scratch These reenactments allow students to step into the past requiring them to think and act in ways historical figures might have Students must make crucial or dramatic decisions though these decisions need not align with the historical record In doing so they learn through action and strategic consideration the impact of real individuals and groups of people on the course of history There is a quiet revolution underway in how history is taught to undergraduates Can You Beat Churchill hopes to make it a noisy one

Gender and the Judiciary in Africa Gretchen Bauer, Josephine Dawuni, 2015-10-30 Between 2000 and 2015 women ascended to the top of judiciaries across Africa most notably as chief justices of supreme courts in common law countries like Ghana Nigeria Sierra Leone Gambia Malawi Lesotho and Zambia but also as presidents of constitutional courts in civil law countries such as Benin Burundi Gabon Niger and Senegal Most of these appointments was a first in terms of the gender of the chief justice At the same time women are being appointed in record numbers as magistrates judges and justices across the continent While women s increasing numbers and roles in African executives and legislatures have been addressed in a burgeoning scholarly literature very little work has focused on women in judiciaries This book addresses the important issue of the increasing numbers and varied roles of women judges and justices as judiciaries evolve across the continent Scholars of law gender politics and African politics provide overviews of recent developments in gender and the judiciary in nine African countries that represent north east southern and west Africa as well as a range of colonial experiences postcolonial trajectories and legal systems including mixes of common civil customary or sharia law In the process each chapter seeks to address the following questions What has been the historical experience of the judicial system in a given country from before colonialism until the present What is the current court structure and where are the women judges justices magistrates and other women located What are the selection or appointment processes for joining the bench and in what ways may these help or hinder women to gain access to the courts as judges and justices Once they become judges do women on the bench promote the rights of women through their judicial powers What are the challenges and obstacles facing women judges and justices in Africa Timely and relevant in this era in which governmental accountability and transparency are essential to the consolidation of democracy in Africa and when women are accessing significant leadership positions across the continent this book considers the substantive and symbolic representation of women s interests by women judges and the wider implications of their presence for changing institutional norms and advancing the rule of law and human rights
