Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a local health club. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of six women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of six women who exercised for 12 weeks. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE during a 12-week period. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The HR of the exercise group increased from 68 to 78 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,200 to 1,400 kcal per day. The control group showed no significant change in HR or EE. These results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure of sedentary, middle-aged women.

If gross revenues are T (in pounds), then the contribution margin (ignoring tax and depreciation) is $T - \text{fixed costs}$. If the contribution margin is C , then the contribution margin ratio is C/T (expressed as a fraction), and the contribution margin is $C = T \times \text{contribution margin ratio}$. And the net income is $C - \text{depreciation}$.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output. This is because the producer's marginal revenue (MR) curve shifts up, and the producer will increase its output until its marginal cost (MC) curve intersects its new MR curve.
