Composing Research Cindy Johanek, 2000-04 Cindy Johanek offers a new perspective on the ideological conflict between qualitative and quantitative research approaches and the theories of knowledge that inform them With a paradigm that is sensitive to the context of one s research questions she argues scholars can develop less dichotomous forms that invoke the strengths of both research traditions Context oriented approaches can lift the narrative from beneath the numbers in an experimental study for example or bring the useful clarity of numbers to an ethnographic study A pragmatic scholar Johanek moves easily across the boundaries that divide the field and argues for contextualist theory as a lens through which to view composition research This approach brings with it a new focus she writes This new focus will call us to attend to the contexts in which rhetorical issues and research issues converge producing varied forms many voices and new knowledge indeed reconstructing a discipline that will be simultaneously focused on its tasks its knowledge makers and its students Composing Research is a work full of personal voice and professional commitment and will be a welcome addition to the research methods classroom and to the composition researcher s own bookshelf 2000 Outstanding Scholarship Award from the International Writing Centers Association

The Testing Trap George Hillocks, 2002-04-12 Do

statewide assessments really do what they are supposed to do Through interviews with over three hundred teachers and administrators Hillocks examines whether state writing tests in Illinois Kentucky Oregon New York and Texas actually improve students ability to express their thinking in writing Ultimately Hillocks argues that the majority of existing tests actually have a harmful effect on the way students are taught to write In addition to providing analyses of assessments that do not encourage good writing The Testing Trap contrasts them to those that do Concluding with practical procedures for examining and evaluating writing assessments this book is a provocative and essential read for administrators teachers policymakers parents and all who care about the education of our children
