Residential Basement Fire Claims the Life of Career Lieutenant - Pennsylvania

INCIDENT

On January 8, 2004, a 40-year-old male career lieutenant (the victim) sustained serious injuries when he partially fell through the first floor while fighting a residential basement fire. The victim was among the first on the scene, and he reported light smoke coming from a two-story residential structure. The victim entered the structure without his self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA) in hand, and reported to the Incident Commander (IC) that it was a basement fire. The victim asked the structure to enter the structure through the first floor of the first floor. The victim's crew prepared the first floor and looked for fire extension, as another crew entered the fire through a rear entrance into the basement. The victim exited the structure a second time, presumably for air, and spoke to another resident who was installing vestibules. The victim went back into the structure and was trapped as he fell through a wall when he partially fell through the floor.

Rescue crews found and removed the victim within minutes and he was transported to a local hospital, where he died from his injuries several days later.

NIOSH investigators conducted a fire investigation to determine the cause of the fire and to identify factors that contributed to the death of the victim.

- reports, and all officers should enforce the requirement that all fire fighters wear their SCBA in whatever there is a chance they might be exposed to a toxic or oxygen-deficient atmosphere, including during the initial assessment.

- ensure fire fighters are trained to recognize the danger of operating alone in a fire.

- ensure that more consistency is maintained with one or more fire fighters per room.
