Empire, Development & Colonialism Mark Duffield,Vernon Hewitt,2013 This book makes a unique contribution to the renewed debate about empire and imperialism and will be of great interest to all those concerned with understanding the historical antecedents and wider implications of today's emergent liberal interventionism and the various logics of international development. This collection explores the similarities, differences and overlaps between the contemporary debates on international development and humanitarian intervention and the historical artefacts and strategies of Empire. It includes views by historians and students of politics and development drawing on a range of methodologies and approaches. The parallels between the language of nineteenth century liberal imperialism and the humanitarian interventionism of the post Cold War era are striking. The American military both in Somalia in the early 1990s and in the aftermath the Iraq invasion used ethnographic information compiled by British colonial administrators. Are these interconnections which are capable of endless multiplication accidental curiosities or more elemental? The contributors to this book articulate the belief that these comparisons are not just anecdotal but are analytically revealing. From the language of moral necessity and conviction, the design of specific aid packages, the devised forms of intervention and governmentality through to the life style design and location of NGO encampments, the authors seek to account for the numerous and often striking parallels between contemporary international security, development and humanitarian intervention and the logic of Empire.

This book comprises a wide range of scholarly essays introducing readers to key topics and issues in science education. Science education has become a well established field in its own right with a vast literature and many active areas of scholarship. Science Education: An International Course Companion offers an entry point for students seeking a sound but introductory understanding of the key perspectives and areas of thinking in science education. Each account is self contained and offers a scholarly and research informed introduction to a particular topic, theme or perspective with both citations to key literature and recommendations for more advanced reading. Science Education: An International Course Companion allows readers such as those preparing for school science teaching or seeking more advanced specialist qualifications to obtain a broad familiarity with key issues across the field as well as guiding wider reading about particular topics of interest. The book therefore acts as a reader to support learning across courses in science education internationally. The broad coverage of topics is such that that the book will support students following a diverse range of courses and qualifications. The comprehensive nature of the book will allow course leaders and departments to nominate the book as the key reader to support students their core course companion in science education.

The Business Solution to Poverty Paul Polak, Mal Warwick, 2013-09-09. Right now the number of people living on 2 a day or less is more than the entire population of the world in 1950. These 2.7 billion people are not just the world's greatest challenge; they represent an extraordinary market opportunity By learning how to serve them ethically and effectively businesses can earn handsome profits while helping to solve one of the world s most intractable problems The key is what Paul Polak and Mal Warwick call Zero Based Design starting from scratch to create innovative products and services tailored for the very poor armed with a thorough understanding of what they really want and need and driven by what they call the ruthless pursuit of affordability Polak has been doing this work for years and Warwick has extensive experience in both business and philanthropy Together they show how their design principles and vision can enable unapologetic capitalists to supply the very poor with clean drinking water electricity irrigation housing education healthcare and other necessities at a fraction of the usual cost and at profit margins attractive to investors Promising governmental and philanthropic efforts to end poverty have not reached scale because they lack the incentives of the market to attract massive resources This book opens an extraordinary opportunity for nimble entrepreneurs investors and corporate executives that will result not only in vibrant growing businesses but also a better life for the world s poorest people Development and Calibration of a Ground-water Flow Model for the Sparta Aquifer of Southeastern Arkansas and North-central Louisiana and Simulated Response to Withdrawals, 1998-2027 Paul W.
