 members of a species living within a specific area Populations are typically dynamic entities They expand and contract but as noted above they cannot expand infinitely Populations fluctuate based on a number of factors seasonal and yearly changes in the environment natural disasters such as forest fires and volcanic eruptions competition for resources between and within species and the amount of habitat where an organism lives The statistical study of population dynamics demography uses a series of mathematical tools to investigate how populations respond to changes in their biotic and abiotic environments Many of these tools were originally designed to study human populations Chapter Outline Population Population Growth Population
