The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices

Developing Reflective TESOL Practitioners Through Teacher Education

Andrzej Cirocki, Mark Wyatt, Xuesong (Andy) Gao, 2024-06-26 This textbook provides insights from Asian contexts into how reflective practice is nurtured on Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages TESOL and English Language Teaching ELT teacher education programmes There is increasing recognition worldwide that given the centrality of reflective practice to teachers ongoing professional development supporting teachers to become reflective practitioners should be integral to teacher education programmes Consequently tertiary level courses in areas such as TESOL and ELT tend to promote reflective practice supported by theoretical input from the burgeoning literature on reflection much of which is produced in the West Relatively under represented in the literature are global perspectives on reflective practice there are consequently relatively few accounts as to how reflective practice is embedded in teacher education programmes in different parts of the world including Asia Hence this book addresses a gap Contributing authors from fourteen countries provide insights into the ways in which teachers are helped to grow as reflective practitioners on their teacher education programmes in their unique contexts This textbook showcases how reflective teaching practices are developed supported by frameworks for critical reflection and in interaction with local educational policies These distinctive accounts aid readers in reflecting on the ways in which reflective practice is supported in their own teacher education contexts and in considering ways of enhancing the reflective dimension of their programmes This textbook showcases innovative reflective activities and can be used as a principal text or as supplemental reading on a range of TESOL and ELT teacher education courses

Course-Based Undergraduate Research Nancy H. Hensel, 2023-07-03 Co published with the Council on Undergraduate Research Undergraduate research has long been recognized as a high impact practice HIP but has unfortunately been offered only to juniors and seniors and to very few of them often in summer programs This book shows how to engage students in authentic research experiences built into the design of courses in the first two years thus making the experience available to a much greater number of students Research that is embedded in a course especially general education courses addresses the issue of how to expand undergraduate research to all students Research has shown that students who have early experiences in undergraduate research are more likely to pursue further research prior to and after graduation This is also an issue of social justice because it makes the benefits of undergraduate research available to students who must work during the academic year and in the summer It is widely accepted that the skills developed through undergraduate research help prepare students for their future careers The book addresses all aspects of the topic including What are appropriate expectations for research in the first two years How to design appropriate course based research for first and second year students How to mentor a class rather than individual students How students can disseminate the results of their research Possible citizen science projects appropriate for the first and second years Providing additional resources available to support course based research in the first two years Designed for faculty at four year and two year colleges and including examples from the sciences the social sciences and the humanities the strategies and methods described can be adapted to disciplines not specifically mentioned in the book Many faculty are hesitant to engage first and second year students in undergraduate research because they worry students don't know enough to conduct authentic research in their discipline because they worry about the time it will take to develop activities for these students and because they wonder how they can mentor a whole class of students doing research The authors have successfully dealt with these issues and provide examples of how it's done
