David Bailey, Caroline Chapain

Running In Recession How To Cope Up During Recession:

Coping with Recession Paul A. Geroski, Paul Gregg, 1997-10-02 The text examines how companies cope with the pressures which are unleashed by recessions It is based on a large scale survey undertaken in the spring of 1993 which involved the participation of more than 600 leading UK companies The questionnaire data was combined with a long enough time series of data on the financial performance of most of the companies to enable us to trace effects left over from the recession in the early 1980s The main issues examined in the book are what makes companies vulnerable to recessionary pressures How do companies typically respond to these pressures How have recessionary pressures been transmitted back into labour markets and what kinds of institutional changes have they induced Finally do recessionary pressures stimulate innovative activity

U.S. Economic Growth from 1976 to 1986: Forecasts of long-run economic growth, 1976 The Recession and Beyond David Bailey, Caroline Chapain, 2012-03-29 How has the recession impacted on firms people and places How have local and regional authorities responded This book aims to answer these questions by offering an overview of the impacts of the recession on people and places and how it has affected local authorities in the UK and other OECD countries Being close to the ground local authorities are usually at the forefront of dealing with the impacts of recession on people and places During recessions they face important challenges on the one hand they have to cope with increasing demand for services and on the other hand they may face a decrease in their income due to the slowdown in the economy And with the shift from local government to local governance in the last 10 years they also have an increasing role in terms of coordinating various organisations in the delivery of local services This book begins by looking at the potential impacts of downturns and economic shocks on firms workers communities and places both in the short and long term Part I Part II then looks at interventions and responses that local authorities can put in place on their own or in partnership with other local regional and or national actors to try to deal with these differential impacts Building on these insights part III offers international perspectives outlining the role of local authorities during the recession in France Canada and Australia These examples and cases highlight some key variations in the availability of resources at the local level across countries and shed light on the way particular economic situations and governance contexts influence local authorities responses This section also includes work by the OECD LEED Programme which surveys cities worldwide and which looks at the application of the Barcelona Principles Overall the volume makes a fresh contribution to understanding local economic development and governance by providing a unique perspective and original data on the way local authorities have dealt with the recent economic shock across countries Looking ahead the book also raises some important issues in relation to local and regional governance and policies to foster long term sustainable economic recovery This edited volume will be accessible to and suitable for students and researchers studying economic change the recession planning public policy and industrial policy interventions and political science

Canadian Turn to Fiscal Restraint offers the first comprehensive scholarly account of this vital public policy issue Lewis deftly analyzes the history of deficit finance from before Confederation through Canada's postwar Keynesianism to the retrenchment of the Mulroney and Chrétien years In doing so he illuminates how the political conditions for Ottawa's deficit elimination in the 1990s materialized after over 20 consecutive years in the red and how the decline of Canadian

Keynesianism has made way for the emergence of politics organized around balanced budgets Economics in the Long Run Theodore Rosenof,2000-11-09 Though understandably preoccupied with the immediate problems of the Great Depression the generation of economists that came to the forefront in the 1930s also looked ahead to the long term consequences of the crisis and proposed various solutions to prevent its recurrence Theodore Rosenof examines the long run theories and legacies of four of the leading members of this generation John Maynard Keynes of Great Britain who influenced the New Deal from afar Alvin Hansen and Gardiner Means who fought over the direction of New Deal policy and Joseph Schumpeter an opponent of the New Deal Rosenof explores the conflicts that arose among long run theorists arguing that such disputes served eventually to set the stage for the emergence and domination of a short run Keynesian approach to economic policy that collapsed under the impact of 1970s stagflation Tracing the subsequent revival of long run theories Rosenof demonstrates their relevance to an understanding of the economy's problems over the past quarter century and to the current debate over public policy Originally published in 1997 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value OCR Economics Student Guide 2: Macroeconomics 1
