No Boundaries Aborigin:

Aboriginal Art and Australian Society Laura Fisher, 2016-05-30 This book is an investigation of the way the Aboriginal art phenomenon has been entangled with Australian society's negotiation of Indigenous people's status within the nation. Through critical reflection on Aboriginal art's idiosyncrasies as a fine arts movement its vexed relationship with money and its mediation of the politics of identity and recognition this study illuminates the mutability of Aboriginal art's meanings in different settings. It reveals that this mutability is a consequence of the fact that a range of governmental activist and civil society projects have appropriated the art's vitality and metonymic power in national public culture and that Aboriginal art is as much a phenomenon of visual and commercial culture as it is an art movement. Throughout these examinations Fisher traces the utopian and dystopian currents of thought that have crystallised around the Aboriginal art movement and which manifest the ethical conundrums that underpin the settler state condition.

Aboriginal and Treaty Rights in Canada Michael Asch, 2007-10-01 In the last two decades there has been positive change in how the Canadian legal system defines Aboriginal and treaty rights. Yet even after the recognition of those rights in the Constitution Act of 1982 the legacy of British values and institutions as well as colonial doctrine still shape how the legal system identifies and interprets Aboriginal and treaty rights. What results is a systematic bias in the legal system that places Indigenous peoples at a distinct disadvantage. The eight essays in Aboriginal and Treaty Rights in Canada focus on redressing this bias. All of them apply contemporary knowledge of historical events as well as current legal and cultural theory in an attempt to level the playing field. The book highlights rich historical information that previous scholars may have overlooked. Of particular note are data relevant to better understanding the political and legal relations established by treaty and the Royal Proclamation of 1763. Other essays include discussion of such legal matters as the definition of Aboriginal rights and the privileging of written over oral testimony in litigation. The collection also includes an essay that by means of ethnographic and historical data raises concerns respecting how the law might be distorted even further if we are not careful in assuring that what is defined as Indigenous today is detached from its own traditions and divorced from contemporary issues. In sum Aboriginal and Treaty Rights in Canada shows that changes in the way in which these rights are conceptualized and interpreted are urgently needed. This book then offers concrete proposals regarding substantive processual and conceptual matters that together provide the means to put change into practice.

Six Paintings from Papunya Fred R. Myers, Terry Smith, 2024-08-09 In the early 1970s at Papunya a remote settlement in the Central Australian desert a group of Indigenous artists decided to communicate the sacred power of their traditional knowledge to the wider worlds beyond their own. Their exceptional innovative efforts led to an outburst of creative energy across the continent that gave rise to the contemporary Aboriginal art movement that continues to this day. In their new book anthropologist Fred Myers and art critic Terry Smith discuss six Papunya paintings featured in a 2022 exhibition in New York. They draw on several discourses that have developed around First Nations art.

notably anthropology art history and curating as practiced by Indigenous and non Indigenous interpreters Their focus on six key paintings enables unusually close and intense insight into the works content and extraordinary innovation Six Paintings from Papunya also includes a reflection by Indigenous curator and scholar Stephen Gilchrist who reflects on the nature and significance of this rare transcultural conversation Aboriginal Secrets of Awakening Robbie Holz, 2015-04-10 One woman's story of healing through Aboriginal principles and awakening to her own healing powers Explains principles from the 60 000 year old Aboriginal culture of Australia that can help create transformation in your life Details her experiences participating in secret women's ceremonies with an Outback Aboriginal tribe Describes how she recovered from illness met her team of spirit guides coped with her husband's passing and found that love can transcend death Sharing her journey from bedridden patient to inspired healer Robbie Holz recounts her recovery from hepatitis C fibromyalgia and treatment induced brain damage as well as the blossoming of her own healing powers through her work with her husband the late healer Gary Holz and her experiences with a remote tribe in the Outback of Australia Robbie describes many of the miraculous healings she witnessed while working with Gary in his Aboriginal inspired healing practice She details the powers that Gary developed after his transformative time being healed by Aborigines including telepathy seeing the inner workings of his patients bodies and channeling the healing energy of the universe She discloses how Gary accessed the Dreamtime the energy field that is the source of reality and reveals how her work with Gary led her to an invitation to participate in secret Aboriginal women's ceremonies in the harsh Outback desert where her own healing powers blossomed Through her story of healing and discovery Robbie describes principles from the 60 000 year old Aboriginal culture that can help create transformation in your life She explains how she became aware of her team of spirit guides who provide unwavering support and unconditional love through each of life's struggles She shares the tenderness of her husband's final moments and how she worked past her grief to transform her relationship with him enabling him to become an active loving part of her spirit team and partner in her healing work Aboriginal California, 1963 The Memory of Nature in Aboriginal, Canadian and American Contexts Françoise Besson, Claire Omhovère, Héliane Ventura, 2014-06-12 This volume engages the reader's interest in the relationship that binds man to nature a relationship which makes itself manifest through certain literary or visual artefacts produced by Native or non Native writers and artists It ranges from the study of literatures mainly from Canada including Quebec and Acadia but also from Britain the United States of America France Turkey and Australia to the exploration of films photographs paintings and sculptures produced by Aboriginal artists from North America Thanks to a relational paradigm founded on spatial and temporal enlargement it reimagines the critical outlook on indigenous production by instigating a dialogue between endogenous and exogenous scholars novelists and artists and by weaving together interdisciplinary approaches spanning anthropology geology ecocriticism and the study of myths From the writings by Scott Momaday to those by Tomson Highway from Pauline Johnson to Louise Erdrich or from the photographs by William

McFarlane Notman and Edward Burtynsky or the films by Randy Redroad to the paintings by Emily Carr it explores art as the sedimentation of nature It simultaneously interrogates the representation of nature and the nature of representation as a geological and generic process inscribed in the history of mankind Without eclipsing differences and imposing a reified Eurocentric critical discourse upon indigenous productions this volume does not colonize indigenous texts or indulge in cultural appropriation of works of art but looks for historical mythological or geological traces of the past a past characterized by the intimacy between man and animal man and rock or man and plant a past which is allowed to resurface through the creative and critical outlooks that are bestowed upon its subjacent or subterranean existence It resurfaces not as nostalgic memory but as an interactive fertilization giving the present a new life in which the non human provides a key to the understanding of the human bond to nature

Feminist Perspectives on Art Jacqueline Millner, Catriona

Moore, 2018-02-01 When the body is foregrounded in artwork as in much contemporary performance sculptural installation and video work so is gendered and sexualised difference Feminist Perspectives on Art Contemporary Outtakes looks to interactions between art history theory curation and studio based practices to theorise the phenomenological import of this embodied gender difference in contemporary art The essays in this collection are rooted in a wide variety of disciplines including art making curating and art history and criticism with many of the authors combining roles of curator artist and writer This interdisciplinary approach enables the book to bridge the theory practice divide and highlight new perspectives emerging from creative arts research Fresh insights are offered on feminist aesthetics women s embodied experience curatorial and art historical method art world equity and intersectional concerns It engages with epistemological assertions of how the body feels how the land has creative agency in Indigenous art and how the use of emotional or affective registers may form one s curatorial method This anthology represents a significant contribution to a broader resurgence of feminist thought methodology and action in contemporary art particularly in creative practice research It will be of particular value to students and researchers in art history visual culture cultural studies and gender studies in addition to museum and gallery professionals specialising in contemporary art

Indigenous Mobilities Rachel Standfield, 2018-06-07

This edited collection focuses on Aboriginal and M ori travel in colonial contexts Authors in this collection examine the ways that Indigenous people moved and their motivations for doing so Chapters consider the cultural aspects of travel for Indigenous communities on both sides of the Tasman Contributors examine Indigenous purposes for mobility including for community and individual economic wellbeing to meet other Indigenous or non Indigenous peoples and experience different cultures and to gather knowledge or experience or to escape from colonial intrusion This volume is the first to take up three challenges in histories of Indigenous mobilities First it analyses both mobility and emplacement Challenging stereotypes of Indigenous people as either fixed or mobile chapters deconstruct issues with ramifications for contemporary politics and analyses of Indigenous society and of rural and national histories As such it is a welcome intervention in a wide range of urgent issues Second by examining

Indigenous peoples in both Australia and New Zealand this volume is an innovative step in removing the artificial divisions that have arisen from national histories Third the collection connects the experiences of colonised Indigenous peoples with those of their colonisers shifting the long held stereotypes of Indigenous powerlessness Chapters then convincingly demonstrate the agency of colonised peoples in shaping the actions and the mobility itself of the colonisers While the volume overall is aimed at opening up new research questions and so invites later and even more innovative work this volume will stand as an important guide to the directions such future work might take Heather Goodall Professor Emerita UTS

Decolonizing Research Jo-ann Archibald Q'um Q'um Xiim, Jenny Bol Jun Lee-Morgan, Jason De Santolo, 2019-05-15 From Oceania to North America Indigenous peoples have created storytelling traditions of incredible depth and diversity The term Indigenous storywork has come to encompass the sheer breadth of ways in which Indigenous storytelling serves as a historical record as a form of teaching and learning and as an expression of Indigenous culture and identity But such traditions have too often been relegated to the realm of myth and legend recorded as fragmented distortions or erased altogether Decolonizing Research brings together Indigenous researchers and activists from Canada Australia and New Zealand to assert the unique value of Indigenous storywork as a focus of research and to develop methodologies that rectify the colonial attitudes inherent in much past and current scholarship By bringing together their own indigenous perspectives and by treating Indigenous storywork on its own terms the contributors illuminate valuable new avenues for research and show how such reworked scholarship can contribute to the movement for Indigenous rights and self determination Toxic Timescapes Simone M. Müller, May-Brith Ohman Nielsen, 2023-01-17 An interdisciplinary environmental humanities volume that explores human environment relationships on our permanently polluted planet While toxicity and pollution are ever present in modern daily life politicians juridical systems media outlets scholars and the public alike show great difficulty in detecting defining monitoring or generally coming to terms with them This volume's contributors argue that the source of this difficulty lies in the struggle to make sense of the intersecting temporal and spatial scales working on the human and more than human body while continuing to acknowledge race class and gender in terms of global environmental justice and social inequality The term toxic timescapes refers to this intricate intersectionality of time space and bodies in relation to toxic exposure As a tool of analysis it unpacks linear understandings of time and explores how harmful substances permeate temporal and physical space as both event and process It equips scholars with new ways of creating data and conceptualizing the past present and future presence and possible effects of harmful substances and provides a theoretical framework for new environmental narratives To think in terms of toxic timescapes is to radically shift our understanding of toxicants in the complex web of life Toxicity pollution and modes of exposure are never static therefore dose timing velocity mixture frequency and chronology matter as much as the geographic location and societal position of those exposed Together these factors create a specific toxic timescape that lies at the heart of each contributor's narrative Contributors from the disciplines of history human geography science and technology studies philosophy and political ecology come together to demonstrate the complex reality of a toxic existence Their case studies span the globe as they observe the intersection of multiple times and spaces at such diverse locations as former battlefields in Vietnam aging nuclear weapon storage facilities in Greenland waste deposits in southern Italy chemical facilities along the Gulf of Mexico and coral breeding laboratories across the world
