

Playground Memory

In elementary school, I had many experiences that garnered memories. I was often bullied on the playground during recess because of my skinniness and height. The larger boys saw me as a target for their ego to inflate. They might have had problems at home, or were bullied themselves, and were projecting their frustrations on me.

I had always been the quiet kid, playing with toys by himself, or tagging along with other children as more of a witness than a major participant. No one's mother expects their child to punch someone, but it happens for certain reasons. In my case, I had been dominated by my classmates for years, and that pent-up anger and shame resulted in a violent action.

From then on, I figured out that I did not need to be bullied. I could take action. I could respond. I found that my anger and resentment gave me a wild and unstoppable strength, which was unmatched by the usual fighting powers of a
