Readings In Zoosemiotics:

Readings in Zoosemiotics Timo Maran, Dario Martinelli, Aleksei Turovski, 2011-11-30 The book is the first annotated reader to focus specifically on the discipline of zoosemiotics. Zoosemiotics can be defined today as the study of signification, communication and representation within and across animal species. The name for the field was proposed in 1963 by the American semiotician Thomas A. Sebeok. He also established the framework for the paradigm by finding and tightening connections to predecessors, describing terminology, developing methodology and setting directions for possible future studies. The volume includes a wide selection of original texts accompanied by editorial introductions. An extensive opening introduction discusses the place of zoosemiotics among other sciences as well as its inner dimensions, the understanding of the concept of communication in zoosemiotics, the heritage of biologist Jakob von Uexküll, contemporary developments in zoosemiotics and other issues. Chapter introductions discuss the background of the authors and selected texts as well as other relevant texts. The selected texts cover a wide range of topics such as semiotic constitution of nature, cognitive capabilities of animals, typology of animal expression and many other issues. The roots of zoosemiotics can be traced back to the works of David Hume and John Locke. Great emphasis is placed on the heritage of Thomas A. Sebeok and a total of four of his essays are included. The Reader also includes influential studies in animal communication: honey bee dance language, vervet monkey alarm calls as well as theory elaborations by Gregory Bateson and others. The reader concludes with a section dedicated to contemporary research. Readings in Zoosemiotics is intended as a primary source of information about zoosemiotics and also provides additional readings for students of cognitive ethology and animal communication studies.

Morrison, 2016-12-20 This groundbreaking work of both theoretical and experiential thought by two leading ecological philosophers and animal liberation scientists ventures into a new frontier of applied ethical anthrozoological studies Through lean and elegant text readers will learn that human interconnections with other species and ecosystems are severely endangered precisely because we lack by our evolutionary self confidence the very coherence that is everywhere around us abundantly demonstrated What our species has deemed to be superior is according to Tobias and Morrison the cumulative result of a tragically tenuous argument predicated on the brink of our species self destruction giving rise to a most unique proposition We either recognize the miracle of other sentient intelligence sophistication and genius or risk enshrining the shortest lived epitaph of any known vertebrate in earth's 4.1 billion years of life Tobias and Morrison draw on 45 years of research in fields ranging from ecological anthropology animal protection and comparative ethics to literature and spirituality and beyond They deploy research in animal and plant behavior biocultural heritage contexts from every continent and they bring to bear a deeply metaphysical array of perspectives that set this book apart from any other The book departs from most work in such fields as animal rights ecological aesthetics comparative ethology or traditional animal and plant behaviorist work and yet it speaks to readers with an interest in those fields A deeply provocative book of philosophical premises and hypotheses from two of the world's most influential ecological philosophers this text is likely to stir uneasiness and debate for many decades to come The Sensory Modes of Animal Rhetorics Alex C. Adaptive Rhetoric Alex C. Parrish, 2013-11-07 Rhetorical scholarship has for decades relied solely on culture to explain persuasive behavior While this focus allows for deep explorations of historical circumstance it neglects the powerful effects of biology on rhetorical behavior how our bodies and brains help shape and constrain rhetorical acts Not only is the cultural model incomplete but it tacitly endorses the fallacy of human exceptionalism By introducing evolutionary biology into the study of rhetoric this book serves as a model of a biocultural paradigm Being mindful of biological and cultural influences allows for a deeper view of rhetoric one that is aware of the ubiquity of persuasive behavior in nature Human and nonhuman animals and even some plants persuade to survive to live love and cooperate That this broad spectrum of rhetorical behavior exists in the animal world demonstrates how much we can learn from evolutionary biology By incorporating scholarship on animal signaling into the study of rhetoric the author explores how communication has evolved and how numerous different species of animals employ similar persuasive tactics in order to overcome similar problems This cross species study of rhetoric allows us to trace the origins of our own persuasive behaviors providing us with a deeper history of rhetoric that transcends the written and the televised and reveals the artifacts of our communicative past Pathways to the Origin and Evolution of Meanings in the Universe Alexei A. Sharov, George E. Mikhailovsky, 2024-02-28 Pathways to the Origin and Evolution of Meanings in the Universe The book explains why meaning is a part of the universe populated by life and how organisms generate meanings and then use them for creative transformation of the environment and themselves This book focuses on interdisciplinary research at the intersection of biology semiotics philosophy ethology information theory and the theory of evolution Such a broad approach provides a rich context for the study of organisms and other semiotic agents in their environments This methodology can be applied to robotics and artificial intelligence for developing robust adaptable learning devices In this book leading interdisciplinary scholars reveal their vision on how to integrate natural sciences with semiotics a theory of meaning making and signification Developments in biology indicate that the capacity to create and understand signs is not limited to humans or vertebrate animals but exists in all living organisms the fact that inspired the integration of biology and semiotics into biosemiotics The authors discuss the nature of semiotic agents organisms and other

Signs in the Dust Nathan Lyons, 2019-02-28 Modern thought is characterized by a dichotomy of meaningful culture and unmeaning nature Signs in the Dust uses medieval semiotics to develop a new theory of nature and culture that resists this familiar picture of things Nathan Lyons argues that culture is natural and nature is cultural through and through

Jakob von Uexküll and Philosophy Francesca Micheli, Kristian Köchy, 2019-12-09 Dismissed by some as the last of the anti Darwinians his fame as a rigorous biologist even tainted by an alleged link to National Socialist ideology it is undeniable that Jakob von Uexküll 1864 1944 was eagerly read by many philosophers across the spectrum of philosophical schools from Scheler to Merleau Ponty and Deleuze and from Heidegger to Blumenberg and Agamben What has then allowed his name to survive the misery of history as well as the usually fatal gap between science and humanities This collection of essays attempts for the first time to do justice to Uexküll's theoretical impact on Western culture By highlighting his importance for philosophy the book aims to contribute to the general interpretation of the relationship between biology and philosophy in the last century and explore the often neglected connection between continental philosophy and the sciences of life Thanks to the exploration of Uexküll's conceptual legacy the origins of cybernetics the overcoming of metaphysical dualisms and a refined understanding of organisms appear variedly interconnected Uexküll's background and his relevance in current debates are thoroughly examined as to appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers in fields such as history of the life sciences philosophy of biology critical animal studies philosophical anthropology biosemiotics and biopolitics

Handbook of Ecocriticism and Cultural Ecology Hubert Zapf,2016-05-10 Ecocriticism has emerged as one of the most fascinating and rapidly growing fields of recent literary and cultural studies From its regional origins in late twentieth century Anglo American academia it has become a worldwide phenomenon which involves a decidedly transdisciplinary and transnational paradigm that promises to return a new sense of relevance to research and teaching in the humanities A distinctive feature of the present handbook in comparison with other survey volumes is the combination of ecocriticism with cultural ecology reflecting an emphasis on the cultural transformation of ecological processes and on the crucial role of literature art and other forms of cultural creativity for the evolution of societies towards sustainable futures In state of the art contributions by leading international scholars in the field this handbook maps some of the most important developments in contemporary ecocritical thought It introduces key theoretical concepts issues and directions of ecocriticism and cultural ecology and demonstrates their relevance for the analysis of texts and other cultural phenomena Time, Space, Matter in Translation Pamela Beattie,Simona Bertacco,Tatjana Soldat-Jaffe,2022-09-28 Time Space Matter in Translation considers time space and materiality as legitimate habitats of translation By offering a linked series of interdisciplinary case studies that show translation in action beyond languages and texts this book provides a capacious and innovative understanding of what translation is what it does how and where The volume uses translation as a means through which to interrogate processes of knowledge transfer and creation interpretation and reading communication and relationship building but it does so in ways that refuse to privilege one discipline over another denying any one of them an entitled perspective The result is a book that is grounded in the disciplines of the authors and simultaneously groundbreaking in how its contributors incorporate translation studies into their work This is key reading for students in comparative literature and in the humanities at large and for scholars interested in seeing how expanding intellectual conversations can develop beyond traditional questions and methods International Handbook of Semiotics Peter Pericles Trifonas,2015-05-11 This book provides an extensive overview and analysis of current work on semiotics that is being pursued globally in the areas of literature the visual arts cultural studies media the humanities natural sciences and social sciences Semiotics also known as structuralism is one of the major theoretical movements of the 20th century and its influence as a way to conduct analyses of cultural products and human practices has been immense This is a comprehensive volume that brings together many otherwise fragmented academic disciplines and currents uniting them in the framework of semiotics Addressing a longstanding need it provides a global perspective on recent and ongoing semiotic research across a broad range of disciplines The handbook is intended for all researchers interested in applying semiotics as a critical lens for inquiry across diverse disciplines The Routledge Companion to Semiotics Paul Copley,2009-09-11 The Routledge Companion to

A Biosemiotic Ontology Felice Cimatti, 2018-11-14

Giorgio Prodi (1928-1987) was an important Italian scientist who developed an original philosophy based on two basic assumptions: 1. life is mainly a semiotic phenomenon; 2. matter is somewhat a semiotic phenomenon. Prodi applies Peirce's cenopythagorean categories to all phenomena of life and matter: Firstness, Secondness, and Thirdness. They are interconnected, meaning that the very ontology of the world according to Prodi is somewhat semiotic. In fact, when one describes matter as made of Firstness and Secondness, this means that matter intrinsically implies semiotics, with Thirdness also being present in the world. At the very heart of Prodi's theory lies a metaphysical hypothesis which is an ambitious theoretical gesture that places Prodi in an awkward position with respect to the customary philosophical tradition. In fact, his own ontology is neither dualistic nor monistic. Such a conclusion is unusual and weird, but much less unusual in present time than it was when it was first introduced. The actual resurgence of various realisms makes Prodi's semiotic realism much more interesting than when he first proposed his philosophical approach. What is uncommon in Prodi's perspective is that he never separated semiotics from the materiality of the world. Prodi does not agree with the standard structuralist view of semiosis as an artificial and unnatural activity. On the contrary, Prodi believed semiosis, that is the interconnection between Firstness, Secondness, and Thirdness, lies at the very bottom of life. On one hand, Prodi maintains a strong realist stance; on the other, a realism that includes semiosis as natural phenomena. This last view is very unusual because all forms, more or less, of realism exclude semiosis from nature, but they frequently reduce semiosis to non-semiotic elements. According to Prodi, semiosis is a completely natural phenomenon.

Visual Communication David Machin, 2014-04-30

The primary goal of the volume on Visual Communication is to provide a collection of high-quality, accessible papers that offer an overview of the different academic approaches to Visual Communication, the different theoretical perspectives on which they are based, the methods of analysis used, and the different media and genre that have come under analysis. There is no such existing volume that draws together this range of closely related material, generally found in much less related areas of research, including semiotics, art history, design, and new media theory. The volume has a total of 34 individual chapters that are organized into two sections: theories and methods, and areas of visual analysis. The chapters are all written by quality theorists and researchers with a view that the research should be accessible to non-specialists in their own field while at the same time maintaining a high quality of work. The volume contains an introduction which plots and locates the different approaches contained in it within broader developments and history of approaches to visual communication across different disciplines, as each has attempted to define its terrain sometimes through unique concepts and methods sometimes through those borrowed and modified from others

The Imaginary of Animals Annabelle Dufourcq, 2021-07-29 This book explores the phenomenon of animal imagination and its profound power over the human imagination It examines the structural and ethical role that the human imagination must play to provide an interface between human subjectivity and the real cognitive capacities of animals The book offers a systematic study of the increasing importance of the metaphors the virtual and figures in contemporary animal studies It explores human animal and real imaginary dichotomies revealing them to be the source of oppressive cultural structures Through an analysis of creative playful and theatric enactments and mimicry of animal behaviors and communication the book establishes that human imagination is based on animal imagination This helps redefine our traditional knowledge about animals and presents new practices and ethical concerns in regard to the animals The book strongly contends that allowing imagination to play a role in our relation to animals will lead to the development of a more empathetic approach towards them Drawing on works in phenomenology contemporary animal philosophy as well as ethological evidence and biosemiotics this book is the first to rethink the traditional philosophical concepts of imagination images the imaginary and reality in the light of a zoocentric perspective It will appeal to philosophers scholars and students in the field of animal studies as well as anyone interested in human and non human imaginations
