Culture, Community, and Development Rhonda Phillips, Mark A. Brennan, Tingxuan Li, 2020-02-03 Culture is a living thing In social settings it is often used to represent entire ways of life including rules values and expected behavior Varying from nation to nation neighborhood to neighborhood and beyond even in the smallest localities culture is a motivating factor in the creation of social identity and serves as a basis for creating cohesion and solidarity This book explores the intersection of culture and community as a basis for locally and regionally based development by focusing on three core bodies of literature theory research and practice The first section theory uncovers some of the relevant historical arguments as well as more contemporary examinations Continuing the research section sheds light on some of the key concepts variables and relationships present in the limited study of culture in community development Finally the practice section brings together research and theory into applied examples from on the ground efforts During a time where the interest to retain the uniqueness of local life traditions and culture is significantly increasing in community based development the authors offer a global exploration of the impacts of culturally based development with comparative analysis in countries such as Korea Ireland and the United States A must read for community development planners policymakers students and researchers

Human Intelligence J. McV. Hunt, 2020-03-12 What determines human intelligence What is its relationship to creativity Its potential for change To illuminate some of these questions J McVicker Hunt has gathered together a number of essays This volume contains some of the answers that have been found but emphasizes that we still need to learn a great deal about developing ways to assess our human resources We remain for example uncertain about what abilities pinpoint intelligence and the extent to which intellectual ability can predict classroom success even the ability to perform a job well. Articles in this book show that indications of heritability have nothing to say about the educability of individuals or classes w races. Investigations indicate that there is a great deal more plasticity in the development of behavior and abilities than was presumed by those who believe in predetermined intelligence. They also indicate that knowledge and ability both grow during the early years; knowledge grows throughout life but the ability to acquire new knowledge and skill declines over time. These areas of developing knowledge are of political as well as social significance. Any attempts to upgrade the abilities of the poor or the disadvantaged must necessarily be concerned with manipulation of the environment. These articles represent the most advanced available information about the relationship of experience, environment and heredity to the development of measurable intelligence. Pm Science P3/4 Home Practice , Pm Science Tests P3/4 , Pm Science Test P5/6 ,
