

as the change that Americans needed to correct the mistakes made by the Carter regime. Reagan earned the trust and respect of the citizens through his candid honesty. He portrayed courageous convictions and focused on pursuing what he and his followers considered to be right. For example, "he took responsibility for the Iran Arms and Contra Aid controversy in 1987, thereby regaining the trust of the public" (Bell 66-74).

Unlike most former presidents of the US, Reagan showed his expertise in managing the country through effective delegation of tasks and authority (Greenstein 220-230). He believed that empowering members of his administration would ensure successful implementation of national policies. Thus, he established effective teams that worked independently, thereby improving the effectiveness of his administration.

If I were the President

As the president, I would use transformational leadership to lead the country. A transformational leader is an individual who is capable of guiding, directing, and influencing others to achieve the desired change (Bonnici 78). Unlike charismatic leadership, transformational leadership does not require special traits and behaviors, which some leaders might lack. Transformational leadership would facilitate power sharing through consultations and widespread participation in my administration. This would ensure effective leadership by promoting responsiveness and accountability among administrators.

Conclusion

Having charisma is a fundamental requirement for being a charismatic leader. This involves having charismatic traits such as trust, a clear vision, excellent communication skills, and ability to delegate authority effectively. President Ronald Reagan had these traits and used them to lead the country. As a result, he was considered a charismatic leader who had extraordinary expertise in leadership.
