Preschool Grade 6 Creating Connections in Teaching and Learning Lindy Abawi, Joan Conway, Robyn

Henderson, 2011-12-01 This book explores the wide range of contexts in which research into creating connections in learning and teaching may take place Creating connections can encompass making links crossing divides forming relationships building frameworks and generating new knowledge The cognitive cultural social emotional and or physical aspects of understanding meaning making motivating acting researching and evaluating are explored as constituent forms of creativity in relation to such connections From this exploration the authors identify varied connective contexts and means which include the learner the educator the organisation and the relevant community The crossing of divides forming learner educator relationships bringing together diverse groups of learners establishing networks and partnerships among educators and establishing links between organisations and communities are all considered as connections which can be created by and within the learning and teaching dynamic By examining the factors which help to facilitate and or restrict the possibilities for creating connections in educational contexts implications for and outcomes of learning and or teaching arise from the connections created The final chapter of this book will explicate the realisations that have emerged for educators and researchers working to create connections These offer suggestions for future directions and enunciate what and how connections might contribute to both educational institutions and the broader society The Barnes & Noble Guide to study of English and French language texts side by side and by paying sustained attention to the diversity of work by Canadian writers for children including both Aboriginal peoples and racialized Canadians It builds on the literary histories bibliographical essays and biographical criticism that have dominated the scholarship to date and sets out to determine and establish new directions for the study of Canadian children's literature Action Research and Postmodernism Tony Brown, Liz Jones, 2001 Make something new Derrida says that is how deconstruction happens This book exemplifies such a move in the way it addresses the stuck places of practitioner oriented research with its rational intentional agents seeking to empower both teacher self and students An example of putting postmodernism to work in educational research the book asks hard questions about necessary complicities rounded in nursery teaching and math education it attempts to develop a better language toward a more complicated understanding of what knowledge means without reverting to the quick and narrow scientism of the past Patti Lather Ohio State University How can we move forward from or develop traditional approaches to Action Research which have dominated teacher research for many years now How can teachers work at improving their teaching when there are so many different understandings of what education is trying to achieve In which ways can post structuralism which has had such a major impact in other disciplines offer practical support to teachers developing their own professional practices A premise of much teacher research is that reflection on practice can lead to a development of that practice Such reflection it is purported enables the practitioner in organising the complexity of the teaching situation with a particular emphasis on how monitoring of change can be converted to control of change This book questions the notion of construing developing practice as aiming for an ideal and suggests that such a pursuit has a questionable track record The very desire for control and the difficulties encountered in trying to document it can cloud our vision from the very complexities we seek to capture The book offers detailed discussion of teacher research enquiries carried out in the context of masters and doctoral degrees It focuses in particular on how the reflective writing generated by the teacher might build towards an assertion of professional identity through which professional demands are mediated Reading with Robert

Marsh,1999 This edition of The Canadian Encyclopedia is the largest most comprehensive book ever published in Canada for the general reader It is COMPLETE every aspect of Canada from its rock formations to its rock bands is represented here It is UNABRIDGED all of the information in the four red volumes of the famous 1988 edition is contained here in this single volume It has been EXPANDED since 1988 teams of researchers have been diligently fleshing out old entries and recording new ones as a result the text from 1988 has grown by 50% to over 4 000 000 words It has been UPDATED the researchers and contributors worked hard to make the information as current as possible Other words apply to this extraordinary work of scholarship AUTHORITATIVE RELIABLE and READABLE Every entry is compiled by an expert Equally important every entry is written for a Canadian reader from the Canadian point of view The finished work many years in the making and the equivalent of forty average sized books is an extraordinary storehouse of information about our country This book deserves pride of place on the bookshelf in every Canadian Home It is no accident that the cover of this book is based on the Canadian flag For the proud truth is that this volume represents a great national achievement From its formal inception in 1979 this encyclopedia has always represented a vote of faith in Canada in Canada as a separate place whose natural worlds and whose peoples and their achievements deserve to be recorded and celebrated At the start of a new century and a new millennium in an increasingly borderless corporate world that seems ever more hostile to national distinctions and aspirations this Canadian Encyclopedia is offered in a spirit of defiance and of faith in our future The statistics behind this volume are staggering The opening sixty pages list the 250 Consultants the roughly 4 000 Contributors all experts in the field they describe and the scores of researchers editors typesetters proofreaders and others who contributed their skills to this massive project The 2 640 pages incorporate over 10 000 articles and over 4 000 000 words making it the largest some might say the greatest Canadian book ever published There are of course many special features These include a map of Canada a special page comparing the key statistics of the 23 major Canadian cities maps of our cities a variety of tables and photographs and finely detailed illustrations of our wildlife not to mention the colourful informative endpapers But above all the book is encyclopedic which the Canadian Oxford Dictionary describes as embracing all branches of learning This means that with rare exceptions there is satisfaction for the reader who seeks information on any Canadian subject From the first entry A mari usque ad mare from sea to sea which is Canada's motto and a good description of this volume's range to the Zouaves who mustered in Quebec to fight for the beleaguered Papacy there is the required summary of information clearly and accurately presented For the browser the constant variety of entries and the lure of regular cross references will provide hours of fascination The word encyclopedia derives from Greek expressions alluding to a grand circle of knowledge Our knowledge has expanded immeasurably since the time that one mind could encompass all that was known Yet now Canada's finest scientists academics and specialists have distilled their knowledge of our country between the covers of one volume The result is a book for every Canadian who values learning and values Canada
