

SALARY NEGOTIATIONS

(Confidential) Under Information on Employee Position 11.

The first step in negotiating the distribution of the total available salary is to determine the total available salary. This is done by adding the salaries of all employees in the company. The total available salary is then divided by the number of employees to determine the average salary. This average salary is then used to determine the salary for each employee. The salary for each employee is then compared to the salary for the same position in the same company. If the salary for the employee is higher than the salary for the same position in the same company, then the salary for the employee is reduced. If the salary for the employee is lower than the salary for the same position in the same company, then the salary for the employee is increased. This process is repeated until the salary for each employee is equal to the salary for the same position in the same company.
