Politique internationale de l'environnement. Entre contradictions et espérances Alexis KOMENAN, 2019-02-27 Il y a quelque quarante ans dans un contexte économique d'euphorie et d'indifférence vis-à-vis de la Nature les premiers grands signaux d'alerte la dégradation des écosystèmes de la Terre menace grandissante pour l'humanité provoquent une explosion de la conscience environnementale au niveau planétaire Le raz de marée écologiste au sein de l'opinion internationale a eu un impact retentissant une véritable politique de l'environnement au niveau international est alors mise en branle vu l'enjeu hautement stratégique et transfrontalier de la question Mais des freins significatifs aux niveaux politique et économique se dressent encore comme des tours imprenables pour l'urgence écologique ce qui conduit inévitablement une fourmilière d'idées de controverses et de perspectives sur la gestion idéale des ressources de la planète Ce petit ouvrage rend compte de ce déroulement

Georges Abi Saab began his writing and teaching at a time when the process of decolonization and thereafter the quest for emancipation began to make its far reaching impact on the international scene producing significant changes in the international environment both quantitatively in increasing the number of nation States and qualitatively in changing patterns of interests and claims This was bound to result in new pressures on the international legal system itself and in a questioning of the traditional Eurocentric content of international law In his work and teaching Professor Abi Saab viewed the dynamics of international law as a function of two driving forces the emergence of the third world and the sense of injustice In his view the first driving force the emergence of the third world raised the problem of exclusion exclusion from participation in the elaboration of international law and the decision making process and exclusion as beneficiaries of the resulting rules of international law At the same time this new force introduced diversity into the international scene reflecting the richness of the international community in its different facets This process remains relevant today reflecting the contemporary problem of exclusion of new actors as well as their quest for participation The second driving force the sense of injustice posed a teleological problem for him that of defining community values in order that they capture the different facets of justice whether formal or distributive So long as there is no effective organic structure international law in his view will continue to remain effectiveness oriented reflecting rather than impacting on the structures of power Nevertheless it is undeniable that there is an on going process of development of community values and interests as Georges Abi Saab wrote with reference to international crimes law like all social phenomena is a continuous unfolding a continuous process of elaboration He has also considered that the dynamics of the international legal process itself can be captured from the perspective of international organizations as vehicles for change in the international system From his early writings Georges Abi Saab approached the United Nations Charter as a blueprint both normative and institutional for a certain type of international society International institutions with all their imperfections continue for him to be the means of realization of the law of cooperation which lies at the heart of his concept of the international system The themes selected for this volume in honour of Professor Georges Abi Saab are intended to reflect his unique and pioneering contribution to the field of international law The contributors are drawn from what he has always considered to be his large family of former students in his forty years of teaching Georges Abi Saab has acted as mentor to generations of students from all over the world who have benefited from his vision insights originality and creative and stimulating use of language The contributors also include colleagues and friends who share a similar vision of the international legal system

What is a Fair International Society?

Emmanuelle Tourme Jouannet, 2014-07-18 Today's world is post colonial and post Cold War These twin characteristics explain why international society is also riddled with the two major forms of injustice which Nancy Fraser identified as afflicting national societies First the economic and social disparities between states caused outcry in the 1950s when the first steps were taken towards decolonisation These inequalities to which a number of emerging states now contribute are still glaring and still pose the problem of the gap between formal equality and true equality Second international society is increasingly confronted with culture and identity related claims stretching the dividing line between equality and difference The less favoured states those that feel stigmatised but also native peoples ethnic groups minorities and women now aspire to both legal recognition of their equal dignity and the protection of their identities and cultures Some even seek reparation for injustices arising from the past violation of their identities and the confiscation of their property or land In answer to these two forms of claim the subjects of international society have come up with two types of remedy encapsulated in legal rules the law of development and the law of recognition These two sets of rights are neither wholly autonomous and individualised branches of law nor formalised sets of rules They are imperfect and have their dark side Yet they can be seen as the first milestones towards what might become a fairer international society one that is both equitable as an answer to socio-economic injustice and decent as an answer to cultural injustice This book explores this evolution in international society setting it in historical perspective and examining its presuppositions and implications

Nouvelle politique étrangère Charlie Mballa,Nelson

Michaud,2016-05-11T00:00:00-04:00 Dans un contexte de mondialisation et de continentalisation chaque gouvernement doit repenser sa politique étrangère et revoir ses stratégies diplomatiques Parallèlement les paradigmes scientifiques qui tentent d'expliquer ces phénomènes doivent être reconsidérés Le présent ouvrage constitue une remarquable réflexion sur la nécessité de repenser le cadre et les niveaux d'analyse de la politique étrangère en réaction cette mouvance et cette gouvernance mondiales

La politique étrangère Claude Roosens,Valérie-Barbara Rosoux,Tanguy de Wilde d'Estmael,2004 Dans le champ des relations internationales la politique étrangère suscite l'intérêt croissant des opinions De plus en plus sensibles aux turbulences de l'espace mondial contemporain celles-ci rigent aujourd'hui la politique étrangère en enjeu démocratique majeur la faisant chapper aux rets d'un monopole des Princes la croisée de l'international et de l'interne la mutation est en cours et emmène les points de repère traditionnels L'inquiétude conceptuelle surgit dès lors où situer dorénavant la politique étrangère Quel rôle lui reconnaître entre les pratiques diplomatiques formalisées dites classiques au service de considérations géopolitiques et sécuritaires strictes et les interventions multiples d'acteurs publics ou privés prétendant agir en faveur de l'intérêt général L'interpellation appelle la mise en lumière de nouveaux jalons Aussi le dessein principal du présent ouvrage est-il de contribuer à la compréhension fine et à l'analyse renouvelée de la politique étrangère Scrutant les éléments de permanence et de changement qui l'affectent cette réflexion se propose d'éclairer non seulement son essence spécifique mais aussi les mécanismes assurant sa conduite tactique comme les déterminants et instruments la façonnant
