Charter School Report Card Shawgi Tell, 2016-04-01 What is a charter school Where do they come from Who promotes them and why What are they supposed to do Are they the silver bullet to the ills plaguing the American public education system This book provides a comprehensive and accessible overview and analysis of charter schools and their many dimensions It shows that charter schools as a whole lower the quality of education through the privatization and marketization of education The final chapter provides readers with a way toward rethinking and remaking education in a way that is consistent with modern requirements Society and its members need a fully funded high quality public education system open to all and controlled by a public authority Our Nation's Schools--a Report Card United States. Elias, Joseph J. Ferrito, Dominic C. Moceris, 2015-12-14 To better serve the whole child look at the whole report card Although parents and teachers spend more time in conferences talking about behavior than they do about rubrics and test scores too many teachers are still guessing when it comes to using outdated behavior ratings and comments to describe the whole child With this book you ll take report cards to the next level integrating social emotional learning and character development into any grading system Resources include Guided exercises for analyzing existing report cards Suggested report card designs Tips on improving teacher parent communication Case studies Testimonials from teachers and students The Nation's Report Card, 2005 The purpose of Fourth Grade Students Reading Aloud NAEP 2002 Special Study of Oral Reading is to examine aspects of oral reading performance accuracy rate and fluency that cannot be observed from results of the main NAEP National Assessment of Educational Progress reading assessment The results provided here are intended to inform educators and researchers about these three aspects of fourth graders oral reading performance and how they relate to their overall reading ability as measured by the 2002 reading assessment Pg iii Nation's Report Card: Economics 2006 Darvin M. Winick, 2008-03 The School Journal, 1904 Developments in School Finance, 1998 Starting Up Lisa Arrastia, Marvin Hoffman, 2015-04-24 Starting Up is a collection of first person accounts by some of the best known founders of new schools in America Providing the kind of knowledge that only experience can teach it is an invaluable resource for anyone in the process of or thinking about opening a new school as well as those interested in the politics of today's era of new school development The authors share how they worked to make their educational aspirations a reality while wrestling with social and economic obstacles such as the distressed state of the communities in which these schools operated and the constant competition for resources Starting Up tells real stories that capture the rich sense of possibility that currently exists for urban education Book Features Behind the scenes accounts from the founders of innovative K 12 schools created to better serve primarily poor communities across the country Lessons learned from school leaders including both the rewards and challenges associated with starting a new school An introduction by Pedro Noguera that situates start ups within current economic and political realities Lisa Arrast a is the middle school principal at United Nations International School in New York Her work in the classroom is the focus of the Emmy nominated PBS documentary Making the Grade Marvin Hoffman is the founding director of The University of Chicago Charter School North Kenwood Oakland campus and the associate director of the University s Urban Teacher Education Program These are educators who recognize that although urban public schools are often deeply flawed and dysfunctional they don t have to be and they are educators who act on the belief that it is possible to create schools that nurture and support the hopes and aspirations of those they serve From the Foreword by Pedro Noguera New York University How might we reimagine our schools This book offers a guide from those who have experienced firsthand the trials and tribulations of trying to create a school from the bottom up It asks all the right questions both the practical and the pedagogical It feels like essential reading as we reconsider how our urban schools should look and function Alex Kotlowitz bestselling author of There Are No Children Here and The Other Side of the River Hanging Out Ruth Garner,2002-03-30 There is an unsettledness now in after school childcare The stay at home mom years are largely over Will children even very young children stay home alone or hang out with peers risking loneliness or engaging in problem behavior Will some new form of supervised care emerge The authors in this collection have spent time in community after school programs and have learned what happens there The authors suggest that after school programs can be an important part of a system of childcare as long as we can find ways to build programs for small and scattered populations as well as for densely packed ones and as long as the money to fund programs can be found The money is important Many of the programs discussed in this book are specifically targeted to children from families with low incomes These are the families least likely to be able to pay for care A reader leaves this book with both anxiety and hope about the future of childcare in the United States Studying Educational and Social Policy Ronald H. Heck,2004-07-19 The purpose of this textbook is to introduce beginning researchers to the study of policy making how it has been examined from a scholarly perspective and the salient issues to consider in conceptualizing and conducting policy research Southern School Journal ,1900 Humanizing Distance Learning Paul Emerich France,2020-11-06 In some ways shouldn t we always be teaching from a distance Paul France asks this not as pitch for distance learning But because part of the reason distance learning has been so challenging Paul asserts is that we re replicating long standing practices that promote dependent learning in our students Why not use this unique moment of time to reconnect with the true purpose of teaching to help our students become liberated learners and free thinkers The next logical step in teachers months long distance learning journey Humanizing Distance Learning describes how to center humanity and equity in our process of reimagining learning Even while teaching and learning miles apart through screens you ll discover how to Build independence within your students so they re better equipped to tackle challenges with persistence and learn how to learn Make collaboration and human connection essential components of your pedagogy offering students the chance to socialize and learn from one another Center and unpack students identities helping them develop a conscious knowledge of themselves all the while using their self identified strengths to overcome any obstacles Plan prepare and implement humanized instruction while teaching for student liberation both digitally and in person Investigate technology integration including the Digital Divide as well as ways to minimize EdTech integration so that our collective sense of humanity can continue to be front and center The future Paul writes may be unclear the road may be rocky and the story may continue to be long and winding as we push forward through this global crisis But the answer will always be simple We must teach and learn in pursuit of a deeper sense of collective humanity and for no other reason This book is equal parts visionary and practical courageous and invitational It addresses foundational needs and wrenching challenges teachers faced during the recent time when U S teachers abruptly found themselves teaching remotely It is a deeply humanizing book Carol Ann Tomlinson William Clay Parrish Jr Professor Emeritus University of Virginia Humanizing Distance Learning is a book for our times not only because it addresses how to build a culture of thinking and teach for understanding at a distance but also because it challenges the status quo of education by offering a more liberated and humane vision Ron Ritchhart Senior Research Associate Harvard Graduate School of Education Paul France has produced a timely and necessary book that will help educators humanize distance learning Recognizing incredible dimensions of complexity this book will surely help educators traverse times of uncertainty in distance learning H Richard Milner IV Cornelius Vanderbilt Chair of Education Vanderbilt University Educating Milwaukee James K. Nelsen, 2015-11-17 Milwaukee's story is unique in that its struggle for integration and quality education has been so closely tied to school choice from the Introduction Educating Milwaukee How One City's History of Segregation and Struggle Shaped Its Schools traces the origins of the modern school choice movement which is growing in strength throughout the United States Author James K Nelsen follows Milwaukee's tumultuous education history through three eras no choice forced choice and school choice Nelsen details the whole story of Milwaukee's choice movement through to modern times when Milwaukee families have more schooling options than ever charter schools open enrollment state funded vouchers neighborhood schools and yet Milwaukee's impoverished African American students still struggle to succeed and stay in school Educating Milwaukee chronicles how competing visions of equity and excellence have played out in one city's schools in the modern era offering both a cautionary tale and a choice example School Reform, Corporate Style Dorothy Shipps, 2006 Like other big city school systems Chicago's has been repeatedly reformed over the last century Yet its schools have fallen far short of citizens expectations and left a gap between the performances of white and minority students Many blame the educational establishment for resisting change Other critics argue that reform occurs too often still others claim it comes not often enough Dorothy Shipps reappraises the tumultuous history of educational progress in Chicago revealing that the persistent lack of improvement is due not to the extent but rather the type of reform Throughout the twentieth century managerial reorganizations initiated by the business community repeatedly altered the governance structure of schools as well as the relationships of teachers to children and parents but brought little improvement while other more promising reform models were either resisted or crowded out Shipp's chronicles how Chicago's corporate actors led, abetted or restrained nearly every attempt to transform the city's school system then asks whether schools might be better reformed by others To show why city schools have failed urban children so badly she traces Chicago's reform history over four political eras revealing how corporate power was instrumental in designing and revamping the system Her narrative encompasses the formative era of 1880-1930 when teachers unions moderated business plans previously unexplored business activism from 1930 to 1980 when civil rights dominated school reform and the decentralization of the 1980s She also covers the uneasy cooperation among business associations in the 1990s to install the mayor as head of the school system a governing regime now challenged by privatization advocates Business people may be too wedded to a stunted view of educators to forge a productive partnership for change Unionized teachers bridle at the second class status accorded them by managers If reform is to reach deeply into classrooms Shipp's concludes it might well require a new coalition of teachers unions and parents to create a fresh agenda that supersedes corporate interests This study clearly shows that in Chicago as elsewhere urban schooling is intertwined with politics and power By reviewing more than a century of corporate efforts to make education work Shipp's makes a strong case that it's high time to look elsewhere perhaps to educators themselves for new leadership

Structuring Inequality Tracy L. Steffes, 2024-04-02 How inequality was forged, fought over and forgotten through public policy in metropolitan Chicago As in many American metropolitan areas inequality in Chicagoland is visible in its neighborhoods These inequalities are not inevitable however They have been constructed and deepened by public policies around housing, schooling, taxation and local governance including hidden state government policies In Structuring Inequality historian Tracy L. Steffes shows how metropolitan inequality in Chicagoland was structured, contested and naturalized over time even as reformers tried to change it through school desegregation, affordable housing and property tax reform While these efforts had modest successes in the city and the suburbs reformers faced significant resistance and counter mobilization from affluent suburbanites, real estate developers and other defenders of the status quo who defended inequality and reshaped the policy conversation about it Grounded in comprehensive archival research and policy analysis Structuring Inequality examines the history of Chicagoland's established systems of inequality and provides perspective on the inequality we live with today

Crossing Segregated Boundaries Dionne Danna, 2020-10-16 Scholars have long explored school desegregation through various lenses examining policy, the role of the courts and federal government resistance and backlash and the fight to preserve Black schools However few studies have examined the group experiences of students within desegregated schools Crossing Segregated Boundaries centers the experiences of over sixty graduates of the class of 1988 in three desegregated Chicago high schools Chicago's housing segregation and declining white enrollments severely curtailed the city's school desegregation plan and as a result desegregation options were academically stratified providing limited opportunities for a chosen few while leaving the majority of students in segregated underperforming schools Nevertheless desegregation did provide a transformative opportunity for those students involved While desegregation was the external impetus that brought students together the students themselves made integration possible and many students found that the few years that they spent in these schools had a profound impact on broadening their understanding of different racial and ethnic groups In very real ways desegregated schools reduced racial isolation for those who took part
