A Changing United Nations W. Knight, 2000-10-19 The United Nations is at a critical juncture It is faced with two distinct choices to remain a decision frozen in time or to develop a long term adaptation agenda and strategy that would allow it to be a relevant institution of global governance for the twenty first century Reform and reflexive institutional adjustments have failed to address underlying problems facing this organization After fifty five years of existence it is still considered an inefficient and ineffective world body Worse yet its relevance is being questioned This study offers a critique of existing UN change processes and then shifts focus to considerations of institutional learning strategies that would allow the UN to maintain relevance amidst the Politics: Another Perspective Wilmer J. Leon III Ph.D.,2016-08-31 Over the past 8 years there have been significant shifts in the American political landscape The election of Senator Barack Obama as America s 44th and first African American president signaled a giant leap forward in the American social cultural and political landscape It has taken America 219 years to reach this point Based upon Senator Obama s campaign promises many people looked forward to a more transparent and inclusive government Others saw this election as a signal of a new post racial America but America has always been a country in conflict As many basked in the comfort of Obama s historic election others feared its backlash History tells us that white supremacy dies hard in America and its proponents would not take America s victory lying down The bigoted rants of the Tea Party and the ultra right wing s obstructionist agenda have resulted in a political stalemate unlike any other in recent American history These reactionary politics coupled with the Democratic Party and Obama Administration s inability to articulate an effective counter narrative and employ effective countermeasures has left America in a political abyss
