Cultural Constructions of Identity Luis Urrieta Jr., George W. Noblit, 2018-03-09 Education research has seen a phenomenal growth in studies that explore the multiple fluid and changing complexities of culture and identity work The nuanced contradictory and process oriented nature of identity and identification has meant that the studies in education are largely and appropriately qualitative and ethnographic However because qualitative studies are marked by their focus on the particular it has been difficult to discern exactly what these studies contribute to identity theory collectively In Cultural Constructions of Identity a set of meta ethnographic syntheses of qualitative studies addressing identity become the vehicle to speak across single studies to address cultural identity theory Meta Ethnography first developed by Noblit and Hare in 1988 incorporates a translation theory of interpretation so that the unique aspects of studies are preserved to the degree possible while also revealing the analogies between these studies While the studies in this book examine the various intersections of race and ethnicity with respect to gender age class and sexuality Cultural Constructions of Identity turns its primary focus on what these studies reveal about identity and identification theory itself

Knowing Your Schools Jim Dueck,2022-01-09 Education is a significant social program in our culture because we understand that learning well impacts our capacity to live well Its importance produces many controversies because perspectives are greatly influenced by what policies and practices are implemented Inevitably the general public has insufficient time and or interest to scratch away the veneer surrounding controversial matters and discover what should be This book identifies numerous conflicts within the field of education and provides the perspectives and information which stakeholders within the enterprise sweep aside or cover up An extensive data base is used to demonstrate why existing policies and practices create unfair learning situations for our nation s children frequently described as our most valuable resource Policy makers both administrative and legislative are caught in the middle yet they choose to avoid controversy by siding with educators This book provides evidence of how the decision making should be altered to achieve optimal learning in our North American schools

Summer versus School James Pedersen,2015-01-22 As American educational reformers continue to find innovative ways to address the global achievement gap many experts seem to agree that increasing instructional time is a viable option In addition to extending the school day some educational leaders have looked to modifying the traditional academic calendar to address some of the academic losses that occur when students have 8 10 weeks of summer vacation each year Re examining how students spend their summer vacation although considered by many to be a cultural taboo may be the answer to addressing global competition and decreasing the national achievement gap The need for a two month break from schools harkens back to a pre industrial time that no longer is pertinent for our students Although an answer may be staring us in the face are we willing to give up on the American tradition of summer vacation all in the name of reform and student success

Unseeing Empire Bakirathi Mani, 2020-10-26 In Unseeing Empire Bakirathi Mani examines how empire continues to haunt South Asian American visual cultures Weaving close readings of fine art together with archival research and ethnographic fieldwork at museums and galleries across South Asia and North America Mani outlines the visual and affective relationships between South Asian diasporic artists their photographic work and their viewers She notes that the desire for South Asian Americans to see visual representations of themselves is rooted in the use of photography as a form of colonial documentation and surveillance She examines fine art photography by South Asian diasporic artists who employ aesthetic strategies such as duplication and alteration that run counter to viewers demands for greater visibility These works fail to deliver on viewers desires to see themselves producing instead feelings of alienation estrangement and loss These feelings Mani contends allow viewers to question their own visibility as South Asian Americans in U S public culture and to reflect on their desires to be represented
