Paper 1Using the method of plural identification for test developing and test using

Olga Mitina (Lomonosov Moscow State University / Moscow City University of Education and Psychology, Russia)

The method of plural identification was developed in Russia in numerous psycho-semantic studies of V. Petrenko and his colleagues. This method, based on the idea of asking subjects the same questions about a set of concepts, results not only in opinions about these concepts but also in data about how the questions are semantically understood by different subjects. This idea was used for test developing. The set of items were asked not only about oneself but also about the more important stereotypic roles with different connotation as "ideal", "typical", "despised", "happy person", "the person 30 years ago (in 30 years)" and so on. The list of the roles is not fixed for everyone and depends on the sphere of diagnostics. E.g. if the test should detect achievement skills, it would be recommend to include the role of "the person who made the career in the profession", and opposite – "a failure". Asking the question about other people, gives results without distortions caused by social desirability and this method can easily correct for answers about oneself. Also we can estimate the cultural specificity of attitudes for different types of behaviors. Several examples of the development of personality tests in Russia in this way will be demonstrated.

Paper 2Adding a frame of reference to personality measures: Comparing the predictive validity of two types of contextualization

Djurree Holtrop (NOA, The Netherlands)

Marise Ph. Born (Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands)

Reinout de Vries (VU University Amsterdam, The Netherlands)

Anita de Vries (VU University Amsterdam/NOA, The Netherlands)

The present study compared the effect of two types of Frame-of-Reference (FoR) modifications to personality test items. Modified (FoR) items were compared to generic items in their incremental validity above generic items in the prediction of academic performance and on participant reactions. The first type of FoR was a tagged version of existing personality inventories with 'at school' behind the original items. The second type of FoR was a completely modified version of the original inventories through a complete contextualization of items. To this end the HEXACO-PI-R ($n = 215$) and the MPT-B5 ($n = 316$) were filled out by college students in a within-subject design. For both questionnaires, the results showed a significant increase in criterion validity from generic, to tagged, to completely contextualized personality inventory. Face validity and perceived predictive validity of the participant reactions generally improved when more context was added. The current study indicates that fully redesigning personality inventories increases criterion validity more than just adding a tag to items.
