First, the results suggest that the training should be designed to address the specific needs of the participants, such as the need for information and the need for support. Second, the results suggest that the training should be designed to be interactive and participatory, rather than being a one-way transmission of information. Third, the results suggest that the training should be designed to be ongoing and continuous, rather than being a one-time event. Finally, the results suggest that the training should be designed to be tailored to the specific needs of the participants, rather than being a generic program.
