studies the city being still predominantly seen as a frame in which activities and social relationship develop not a produce in itself The scope of the book is the comprehension of this production This implies an adequate conceptualisation of the way urban space can be measured and broken down in units which can be put in relation with social processes and agents A first part examines the concepts and their implications The second part deals with the anthropology and typology of architectural production considered in relation to demography The third part develops on the rhythms of the space production at Lyon from the late 15th century to the 19th The temporalities and spatialities of the production are determined and examined The agents of the production are studied all along the period in parallel to the market aimed at investors in real estate tenants activities Each phenomenon identified can be described and understood as in the meantime a temporal spatial and social unit
