Axle and Manual Transmission Lubricants Fuels and Lubricants TC 3 Driveline and Chassis Lubrication, 2022. This SAE Information Report was prepared by the SAE Fuels and Lubricants Technical Committee for two purposes: a) to assist the users of automotive equipment in the selection of axle and manual transmission lubricants for field use and b) to promote a uniform practice for use by marketers of lubricants and by equipment builders in identifying and recommending these lubricants by a service designation. This SAE Information Report describes the overall performance characteristics of axle lubricants and heavy-duty transmission fluids. It will be a useful tool for those new to this industry. The document has been updated to reflect the latest trends and specifications in the industry.

Having discussed the fundamentals of the various transmission units in Chapter 10, the potential tests that would be required to prove that the lubricant is satisfactory for service are considered here. It is clear that there is a vast choice of tests available for this purpose and equally there is a whole range of performance indicators to ensure that the transmission is fit for the duty required. In certain circumstances only one specific function of the lubricant will need to be proven to specify that fluid; at other times there is a whole host of different functions that need to be tested and signed off. In this chapter the options for testing transmission units and their lubricants are discussed. Most of these options will affect or be affected by the lubricant However for completeness some testing in which the fluids are unlikely to have much of a part to play is included Automatic Transmission Fluid - Component Effects on Friction T.
