Kodak S-AV 2050: front view

Kodak S-AV 2050: side view with carousel

Kodak S-AV 2050: dismantled

The below maintenance tasks are based on our experiences when looking after slide-based artworks across multiple Tate sites. Rather than responding to failure during opening hours, our approach is driven by pre-emptively minimising its chance. In order to keep track of the maintenance carried out please set up a maintenance log that notes the action taken as well as any problems that occurred during the course of the display.

- The following items are required:
  - '3-In-One' lubrication oil and grease
  - Oil free air compressor or compressed air cans
  - Lint free tissue, anti-static brush

TWICE A WEEK AND WEEKLY MAINTENANCE

- The lamp inside the projector needs to be changed twice a week. It is important that this is done before the lamp fails. A schedule can be set up based on the average 40 hours life expectation of the lamp. It is necessary to wear gloves when changing the lamp as grease spots on the lamp reduces its life and cause them to blow prematurely.
- The slide projector needs to be cleaned once a week by a trained AV technician. This includes dusting the outer body of the projector as well as the lens and optical path (there are 4 lenses and filters inside the projector). The cleaning of the projectors optics, such as the lens, condenser and heat filter should be carried out using a soft lint e cloth or an anti-static brush.
If the projector begins to make a squeaky noise, this is usually caused by the ventilation wheel inside being dusty and/or that the bearings may need lubrication.

MONTHLY BASIS

- Once a month a deep clean needs to be carried out on the slide projector. Dirt and dust can have adverse effects on the lubricants used on the rotating parts inside the slide projector and thus may lead to malfunctioning.
See detailed maintenance instructions at the end of the report. This will take circa 40 minutes for each.
