Insights in Sound David Baker, Lucy Green, 2017-03-27 Music has long been a way in which visually impaired people could gain financial independence, excel at a highly valued skill or simply enjoy musical participation. Existing literature on visual impairment and music includes perspectives from the social history of music, ethnomusicology, child development and areas of music psychology, music therapy, special educational needs and music education as well as more popular biographical texts on famous musicians. But there has been relatively little sociological research bringing together the views and experiences of visually impaired musicians themselves across the life course. Insights in Sound: Visually Impaired Musicians' Lives and Learning aims to increase knowledge and understanding both within and beyond this multifaceted group. Through an international survey combined with life history interviews, a vivid picture is drawn of how visually impaired musicians approach and conceive their musical activities with detailed illustrations of the particular opportunities and challenges faced by a variety of individuals. Baker and Green look beyond affiliation with particular musical styles, genres, instruments or practices. All levels are included from adult beginners to those who have returned to music making after a gap and from regular amateur and professional musicians to some who are extraordinarily elite or successful. Themes surrounding education, training and informal learning, notation and ear playing, digital technologies and issues around disability, identity, opportunity, marginality, discrimination, despair, fulfilment and joy surfaced as the authors set out to discover, analyse and share insights into the worlds of these musicians.

The Integrated Reporting Movement Robert G. Eccles, Michael P. Krzus, 2014-10-20 An in depth enlightening look at the integrated reporting movement. The Integrated Reporting Movement explores the meaning of the concept, explains the forces that provide momentum to the associated movement and examines the motives of the actors.

involved The book posits integrated reporting as a key mechanism by which companies can ensure their own long term sustainability by contributing to a sustainable society Although integrated reporting has seen substantial development due to the support of companies investors and the initiatives of a number of NGOs widespread regulatory intervention has yet to materialize Outside of South Africa adoption remains voluntary accomplished via social movement abetted to varying degrees by market forces In considering integrated reporting s current state of play the authors provide guidance to ensure wider adoption of the practice and success of the movement starting with how companies can improve their own reporting processes But the support of investors regulators and NGOs is also important All will benefit as will society as a whole Readers will learn how integrated reporting has evolved over the years where frameworks and standards are today and the practices that help ensure effective implementation including but not limited to an extensive discussion of information technology s role in reporting and the importance of corporate reporting websites The authors introduce the concepts of an annual board of directors Statement of Significant Audiences and Materiality and a Sustainable Value Matrix tool that translates the statement into management decisions The book argues that the appropriate combination of market and regulatory forces to speed adoption will vary by country concluding with four specific recommendations about what must be done to accelerate high quality adoption of integrated reporting around the world Title 10 Energy Part 500 to End

The Report: Indonesia 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-05-21. On the cusp of 2014 national elections and the 2015 integration of the ASEAN Economic Community, Indonesia is poised to continue its rapid economic expansion. While the country's natural resources are still plentiful, by channelling foreign direct investment into the right areas, the government is ensuring that true potential in terms of value and manufacturing is achieved. By inviting targeted investment and adapting existing regulatory frameworks, the government has taken significant steps to facilitate foreign investment and the development of value-added industries. Indonesia is a country renowned for its abundance of natural resources which include oil, gas, coal, nickel, tin, copper, gold, and silver. While slightly down on the previous year, the country's total oil production for 2012 stood at 861,000 barrels per day, accounting for approximately 1.2% of the world's oil production. Indonesia remains the world's largest exporter of thermal coal, exporting a total of 304m tonnes in 2012 to countries such as Japan, South Korea, China, and India. The country continues to be the dominant nation in South-east Asia politically and economically, and its participation within ASEAN, in particular, will likely determine the shape of regional integration with the introduction of the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) in 2015 looming as the bloc's next major milestone.
