9781789382655 Beyond War Douglas P. Fry, 2009-04-10 A profoundly heartening view of human nature Beyond War offers a hopeful prognosis for a future without war Douglas P Fry convincingly argues that our ancient ancestors were not innately warlike and neither are we He points out that for perhaps ninety nine percent of our history for well over a million years humans lived in nomadic hunter and gatherer groups egalitarian bands where warfare was a rarity Drawing on archaeology and fascinating recent fieldwork on hunter gatherer bands from around the world Fry debunks the idea that war is ancient and inevitable For instance among Aboriginal Australians warfare was an extreme anomaly Fry also points out that even today when war seems ever present the vast majority of us live peaceful nonviolent lives We are not as warlike as we think and if we can learn from our ancestors we may be able to move beyond war to provide real justice and security for the world

Reflections of Our Past John H. Relethford, Deborah A. Bolnick, 2018-03-26 The rise of the multi billion dollar ancestry testing industry points to one immutable truth about us as human beings we want to know where we come from and who our ancestors were John H Relethford and Deborah A Bolnick explore this topic and many more in this second edition of Reflections of Our Past Where did modern humans come from and how important are the biological differences among us Are we descended from Neandertals How should we understand the connections between genetic ancestry race and identity Were Native Americans the first to inhabit the Americas Can we see evidence of the Viking invasions of Ireland a millennium ago even in the Irish of today Through engaging examination of issues such as these and using non technical language Reflections of Our Past shows how anthropologists use genetic information to suggest answers to fundamental questions about human history By looking at genetic variation in the world today and in the past we can reconstruct the recent and remote events and processes that have created the variation we see providing a fascinating reflection of our genetic past

Notes Mark C. Taylor, 1993-08-15 Publisher Description The Fourth Source Robert J. Tuttle, 2012 This book describes how the effects of nature's own nuclear reactors have shaped the Earth the Solar System the Universe and the history of life as we know it It focuses on observed effects that are poorly explained by our standard theories identifies certain errors in those theories and shows how these effects are caused by natural nuclear fission reactors The theory of Plate Tectonics is wrong and it is shown that expansion of the Earth causes continental drift A physically reasonable mechanism is proposed for expansion and observational data are presented to show that this occurs Evolution is explained as punctuated equilibrium with mutations caused by abrupt surges of radiation and related life forms that have been interpreted as separate species are actually the result of radiation injury. This view is particularly effective as applied to humans. The ability of the dinosaurs to live so large is explained by use of Earth Expansion and a more massive atmosphere to provide buoyancy and effective transpiration of oxygen. These effects also explain how pterodactyls and ancient birds could fly. Expansion induced by impacts at the end of the Cretaceous caused the atmosphere to thin and the dinosaurs collapsed. Analysis of geological and biological data supports this. The astronomical distance scale is shown to be wrong based on the misconception that trigonometric parallax is an absolute measurement. It isn't and the method is led astray by the overwhelming number of asteroidal fragments masquerading as stars. The measurements of an expanding Universe are shown to be in error and an expanding Universe is not needed by an alternative interpretation of Einstein's equations. This interpretation is based on the equal creation of matter and antimatter which is known to occur. Spiral galaxies are not vast Island Universes of stars as we have thought but are shown to be the strewn fields of debris from the nuclear fission detonation of distant planets. The Universe is not made up of 96% Dark Matter and Dark Energy but is instead very ordinary. Abundant evidence and references provide support for all these interpretations. This book opens new opportunities for research by correcting several fundamental errors in our concepts of the Earth, Life and the Universe.

An Introduction to Theory in Anthropology Robert Layton, 1997. In this innovative introduction Robert Layton reviews the ideas that have inspired anthropologists in their studies of societies around the world. An Introduction to Theory in Anthropology provides a clear and concise analysis of the theories and traces the way in which they have been translated into anthropological debates. The opening chapter sets out the classical theoretical issues formulated by Hobbes, Rousseau, Marx and Durkheim. Successive chapters discuss Functionalism, Structuralism, Interactionist theories and Marxist anthropology while the final chapters address the competing paradigms of Socioecology and Postmodernism. Using detailed case studies Professor Layton illustrates the way in which various theoretical perspectives have shaped competing or complementary accounts of specific human societies.

Human Nature and Suffering Paul Gilbert, 2016-08-05. Human Nature and Suffering is a profound comment on the human condition from the perspective of evolutionary psychology. Paul Gilbert explores the implications of humans as evolved social animals suggesting that evolution has given rise to a varied set of social competencies which form the basis of our personal knowledge and understanding. Gilbert shows how our primitive competencies become modified by experience both satisfactorily and unsatisfactorily. He highlights how cultural factors may modify and activate many of these primitive competencies leading to pathology, proneness and behaviours that are collectively survival threatening. These varied themes are brought together to indicate how the social construction of self arises from the organization of knowledge encoded within the competencies. This Classic Edition features a new introduction from the author bringing Gilbert's early work to a new audience. The book will be of interest to clinicians, researchers and historians in the field of psychology.

Many Tongues, One People Arjun

Guneratne,2018-08-06 The Tharu of lowland Nepal are a group of culturally and linguistically diverse people who only a few generations ago would not have acknowledged each other as belonging to the same ethnic group Today the Tharu are actively redefining themselves as a single ethnic group in Nepal s multiethnic polity In Many Tongues One People Arjun Guneratne argues that shared cultural symbols including religion language and common myths of descent are not a necessary condition for the existence of a shared sense of peoplehood The many diverse and distinct socio cultural groups sharing the name Tharu have been brought together Guneratne asserts by a common relationship to the state and a shared experience of dispossession and exploitation that transcends their cultural differences Tharu identity the author shows has developed in opposition to the activities of a modernizing centralizing state and through interaction with other ethnic groups that have immigrated to the Tarai region where the Tharu live This books claims have wide implications for the study of ethnic identity and are applicable far beyond Nepal The emergence of the category of Native American for example may be considered an analogous case because that ethnic identity like the Tharu subsumes people of different cultural origin and has been defined both through the state and against it Georgia Education Journal ,1929 Drinking I. de Garine,Valerie de Garine,2001 Over the last decades quite a few studies have been devoted to drinking Most of these were concerned with alcohol and written by social anthropologists This book presents multidisciplinary aspects of the ingestion of liquids at large addressing many of the overt and covert meanings of drinking from satisfying biological needs to communicating with humans and the hereafter attempting to reach a differential emotional state or seeking good health and longevity through the ingestion of appropriate beverages It includes papers from both biological and social scientists and covers a fair range of societies from rural and urban environments and in continents and countries ranging from Europe Africa and Latin America to Malaysia and the Pacific
