FROM CHAPTER 9

husbandry and agriculture

9.1.1 Characteristics of the agricultural stage of economic development

- The San and Khoikhoi groups used basic hunting weapons, such as bows and arrows.
- The Nguni and the Sotho groups used implements to till the soil and weapons for hunting and war. They were also herders of cattle, sheep and goats.
- People produced agricultural goods for themselves, seldom to trade.
- There was a little trade, mostly in the form of bartering.
- There were no well-developed markets.
- Most of the economic activity in South Africa was agriculture and hunting.
- There was a small population on large pieces of land.
- Labour was scarce; slaves were imported as extra labour.
- Capital was scarce.
- Most farmers produced almost everything they needed themselves.

9.1.2 Factors promoting economic development in agriculture

- The Dutch could barter with the Khoi and the San for land.
- Plentiful game made hunting easy.
- A small market developed for selling food products to the passing ships.
- The colonial powers protected the markets. For example, Britain taxed imports of French wines to promote sales of wines from the Cape to people in Britain.
- In the Cape, local taxes on imports promoted local production of food. For example, a tax on wheat imports in the 1820s encouraged farmers to grow wheat.
- Improved transport and infrastructure

9.1.3 Factors hampering economic development in agriculture

- Lack of capital.
- Labour was scarce.
- There were few or no schools and other educational institutions; most people had little or no education.
- Most areas had little or no infrastructure.
- The colonial powers often had monopolies in the markets. For example, farmers could only sell their goods to the Dutch East India Company.

reasoned call to stop the privatization movement that is draining students and funding from our public schools In Reign of Error Diane Ravitch argues that the crisis in American education is not a crisis of academic achievement but a concerted effort to destroy public schools in this country She makes clear that contrary to the claims being made public school test scores and graduation rates are the highest they've ever been and dropout rates are at their lowest point She argues that federal programs such as George W Bush's No Child Left Behind and Barack Obama's Race to the Top set unreasonable targets for American students punish schools and result in teachers being fired if their students underperform unfairly branding those educators as failures She warns that major foundations individual billionaires and Wall Street hedge fund managers are encouraging the privatization of public education some for idealistic reasons others for profit Many who work with equity funds are eyeing public education as an emerging market for investors Reign of Error begins where The Death and Life of the Great American School System left off providing a deeper argument against privatization and for public education and in a chapter by chapter breakdown putting forth a plan for what can be done to preserve and improve it She makes clear what is right about U S education how policy makers are failing to address the root causes of educational failure and how we can fix it For Ravitch public school education is about knowledge about learning about developing character and about creating citizens for our society It's about helping to inspire independent thinkers not just honing job skills or preparing people for college Public school education is essential to our democracy and its aim since the founding of this country has been to educate citizens who will help carry democracy into the future

Ahmed Naciri, 2015-01-30 Credit rating agencies play an essential role in the modern financial system and are relied on by creditors and investors on the market. In the recent financial crisis, their power and reliability were often questioned, yet a simple rating downgrade could threaten to bankrupt a whole country. This book examines the governance of credit rating agencies as expressed by their ability to fairly, ethically, and consistently assign higher rates to issuers having lesser default risks. However, factors such as the drive for increased revenue and market share, the inadequate business model, the inadequate methodology of assessing risk, opacity, and inadequate internal monitoring have all been identified as critical governance failures for credit agencies. This book explores these issues and proposes some potential solutions and improvements. This will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of corporate finance, financial economics, risk management, investment management, and banking.
