Mitchell, Roy Irwin Brown, 2013-12-14 This is the fourth volume in the Rehabilitation Education Series It is the first volume to be co edited and follows a volume on quality of life The first few years of a child's life sets the pattern for many issues associated with quality of life Although intervention may at later stages enhance quality of life it is in these first years that the attitudes and systems of society can have long lasting effects The early years are increasingly seen as the province of the educator and in children with disabilities special education They are already recognized as the province of the health professional Here we attempt to take a different line reinforcing the idea that child and family are the interacting system we serve The needs are often multidisciplinary but we need to recognize context as the critical marker Thus assessment needs to be linked to programmes and therefore programmes themselves have to be evaluated and environmental issues underlined In particular the contribution from those with sociological interests are noted Intervention whether it be psychological or educational is frequently and ideally placed in the hands of parents or the nearest caregiver The professional becomes the processor ever mindful of the context in which needs and goals are experienced These issues are basic to the issues of quality of life D R M R I B Home Visiting Barbara Hanna Wasik, Donna M. Bryant, 2001 This Second Edition is a good source for those training to be home visitors in service home visitors supervisors and directors of home visiting programs serving a wide range of families Recent evaluations of home visiting are summarized and practical suggestions for evaluating local programs are also included This is an easy to read and essential resource for both beginning and experienced home visitors trainers supervisors of home visitors and directors of home visiting programs Disabled Children and Developing Countries Pam Zinkin, Helen McConachie, 1995-01-17 A critical evaluation of approaches to helping disabled children in developed and developing countries Parents as Care Managers Gillian Bridge, 2019-07-23 First published in 1999 this volume examines the inclusion of disabled children as a category of children in need under the Children Act 1989 and as eligible for assessments of need under the NHS and Community Care Act 1990 has drawn renewed attention to the plight of these children and their families This book presents the findings from a study of parents whose child has cerebral palsy The research undertaken at the cost of social policy change focuses on the apparent gap between the well argued proposals for community care and the experiences of carers A bewildering picture emerges of inadequate services and treatments from the health education and social services in the public voluntary and private sectors Parents experience isolation and stress as they explore ways to improve the quality of their children s lives by experimenting with unregulated and under researched treatments for an incurable physical condition The conclusion that there has been deterioration in provision for these families is a serious indictment on current social policy direction Language Development and Disorders W. Yule, M. Rutter, 1987 Communication disabilities are common although their precise nature and degree of severity vary greatly among individuals They are among the most handicapping of disabilities because they isolate a person and in so doing restrict social educational and occupational opportunities One of the purposes of this book was to bring together theoretical practical and clinical knowledge from several disciplines that bear on language and communication into some reasonably accessible form The intent is to provide a broad and multi faceted view of language development and language disorders Thus contributions from education linguistics psychology pediatrics psychiatry neurology neuropsychology and speech therapy are included They describe our current knowledge of language development suggest classifications for language pathology outline what is known of the epidemiology of language difficulties consider assessment and therapy alternative communication systems and the impact of the new technology on communication aids The variety of perspectives that it provides will make it particularly useful to the range of specialists who are concerned with the development of communication skills and language disorders
