the grammatical collocational and pragmatic items but also provides valuable complementary information on the use of each lexical unit described. Examples are models with which users can form other sentences but are also instantiations of the language that escape systematicity and reflect unpredictable but real uses. Theoretical reflection on the theory of the example with special emphasis on the bilingual analysis of how especially bilingual dictionaries present examples and what kind of information each type of example provides can assist lexicographers in planning their dictionaries and making theoretically based choices when it comes to the selection and presentation of examples.

Dana Dannélls, Lars Borin, Karin Friberg Heppin, 2021-11-26 Large computational lexicons are central NLP resources. Swedish FrameNet aims to be a versatile full scale lexical resource for NLP containing many kinds of linguistic information. Although focused on Swedish this ongoing effort which includes building a new Swedish framenet and recycling existing lexicons has offered valuable insights into general aspects of lexical resource building for NLP which are discussed in this book: computational and linguistic problems of lexical semantics and lexical typology; the nature of lexical items: words and multiword expressions; achieving interoperability among heterogeneous lexical content; NLP methods for extending and interlinking existing lexicons and deploying the new resource in practical NLP applications. This book is targeted at everyone with an interest in lexicography: computational lexicography, lexical typology, lexical semantics, linguistics, computational linguistics and related fields. We believe it should be of particular interest to those who are or have been involved in language resource creation, development and evaluation.
