Teacher, Why Can't You Hear Me Raising My Hand? Lloyd W Sizemore, 2021-03-24 That Lloyd Sizemore received the highest honor in his district for High School Teacher of the Year is not a surprise Loved by his Advanced Placement American History students through the years he placed a high priority on relationship building inside his classroom His career began with eleven years as an athletic coach where many lessons were learned about the importance of establishing trust and respect between players and the coach When he decided to focus completely on being a great teacher he received accolades and awards for his success in the classroom He also served the Social Studies department at Haltom High School as Department Chair for 27 years Year after year at graduation ceremonies many valedictorians would recall his name as their favorite teacher Mr Sizemore not only had the ability to teach history through memorable storytelling but he made it clear to all of his students that he cared for each one of them After several years of retirement he continues to receive emails letters phone calls and Facebook posts from students who knew him during his 35 years as a model educator His book shares some of the strategies he followed to have good teacher student relationships

The Influence of Teacher-Student Relationships and Feedback on Students' Engagement with Learning Roger Wood, 2018-06-11 This book presents a potential hierarchy between the three basic psychological needs central to Self Determination Theory SDT Findings from the author s research suggest that the motivation to exercise autonomy is an outcome that is cumulatively influenced by the perceived quality of the teacher student relationship and students perceived competence within specific learning contexts and with a specific teacher These findings are the basis for three hypotheses regarding students motivation to engage with learning activities The first is that perceived competence is informed by and reciprocally informs the quality of the teacher student relationship The second is that students perceived competence and the quality of the teacher student relationship have a combined impact upon students autonomous motivation The final posit is that a teacher can be autonomy supportive both prior to and during activities where students have opportunities to exercise their autonomy Such autonomy support includes the influence of teacher feedback upon students perceived competence and their subsequent motivation to autonomously engage with learning activities This research begins to unravel such motivational interplay through an SDT informed model which is used as the basis for discussing the specific influence of teacher feedback and autonomy support upon students engagement with learning activities in formal learning settings The findings and model are worthy of further testing and development as part of the wider agenda of student engagement wellbeing and positive psychology prevalent in educational research education psychology and the philosophy of social motivation

Student-Teacher Relationship Quality Research: Past, Present and Future, volume II Claudio Longobardi, Matteo Angelo Fabris, 2024-06-28 Since the publication of Robert Pianta's 2001 handbook on the quality of the teacher-student relationship much has been accomplished and research contributions have multiplied from different authors and countries. This testifies to the richness and continuous evolution of this field of research. The quality of the teacher-student relationship has been recognized as an important factor in the psychological development of students and seems to increase their adjustment to the school context. A good quality of relationship according to attachment theorists is characterized by closeness, affection and respect. In this direction the teacher can offer a relational context that can support the child in their learning processes and psychological development preventing negative outcomes. The research focused on defining the salient features of this educational relationship and refining tools that could collect the perceptions of students and teachers trying to identify the possible outcomes associated and the mechanisms involved.

The 5Cs Positive Teacher Interpersonal Behaviors Ali Derakhshan, 2022-11-16 This book argues that in line with the tenets of positive psychology in SLA and the rhetorical relational goal theory positive teacher-student interpersonal relationships are deemed to be of great significance for empowering students to accomplish favorable academic outcomes and to successfully learn a second foreign language L2 whether at its affective, behavioral or cognitive levels. Therefore understanding the role of teacher interpersonal behaviors and their effect on students' learning gains in the domain of SLA is of utmost importance particularly as this line of research is at its nascent stage of development and as a result available empirical evidence is still inconclusive. To address this issue drawing on the mixed methods design this book mainly aims to first empirically scrutinize the role of 5Cs positive teacher interpersonal variables i.e. care, clarity, closeness, confirmation and credibility in L2 students' affective, behavioral and cognitive learning outcomes through the mediation of student perceived learner empowerment in the L2 context of Iran. Second it is intended to show how L2 teacher educators, teachers and materials developers among other key educational stakeholders can facilitate the provision of interpersonally rich language learning environments with the ultimate goal of enhancing students' L2 learning.
