Gamble,Marie Weil,2010 Dorothy N Gamble and Marie Weil differentiate among a range of intervention methods to provide a comprehensive and effective guide to working with communities Presenting eight distinct models grounded in current practice and targeted toward specific goals Gamble and Weil take an unusually inclusive step combining their own extensive experience with numerous case and practice examples from talented practitioners in international and domestic settings The authors open with a discussion of the theories for community work and the values of social justice and human rights concerns that have guided the work of activists from Jane Addams and Martin Luther King Jr to Cesar Chavez Wangari Maathai and Vandana Shiva They survey the concepts knowledge and perspectives influencing community practice and evaluation strategies Descriptions of eight practice models follow incorporating real life case examples from many parts of the world and demonstrating multiple applications for each model as well as the primary roles competencies and skills used by the practitioner Complexities and variations encourage readers to determine through comparative analysis which model at which time best fits the goals of a community group or organization given the context culture social economic and environmental issues and opportunities for change An accompanying workbook stressing empowerment strategies and skills development is also available from Columbia University Press      Social Responsibility and Sustainability Walter Leal Filho,2019-01-14 This book comprehensively describes social responsibility and sustainable development with contributions from scientists and representatives from industry working in the field The papers are innovative cross cutting and many share practice based experiences some of which may be replicable elsewhere Prepared by the Inter University Sustainable Development Research Programme IUSDRP and the World Sustainable Development Research and Transfer Centre WSD RTC it reiterates the current need to promote social responsibility Social responsibility and sustainable development are two different concepts whose integration over the years has led to significant advances in the way enterprises see and perceive their operations. It is not only about policies or steps taken to meet legal requirements but is also about social equality and environmental accountability also bearing in mind the links with eco efficiency innovation and the health and wellbeing of workers. According to ISO 26000 social responsibility is the responsibility of an organisation for the impacts of its decisions and activities on society and the environment through transparent and ethical behaviour that a contributes to sustainable development including health and the welfare of society b takes into account the expectations of stakeholders c is in compliance with applicable law and consistent with international norms of behaviour d is integrated throughout the organisation and practised in its relationships. But even though the relations between social responsibility and sustainability are strong it is still necessary to encourage organisations to adhere to or at least follow the principles of sustainable development in their operations giving something back to the community. As such there is a need for a better understanding of how social responsibility is related to sustainable development and of the identification of processes methods and tools that may help the integration of these two important elements. There is also a real need to showcase successful examples of how to structure behaviour and institutional practice in line with the sustainability challenges we face today.

The Rush to Nanoscale spreads throughout different sites and arenas involving a multiplicity of actors meanings and spaces in which they emerge. The uncertainty of nanotechnology appears to be both a condition and a consequence of this situation. This volume adds to the collective effort of charting the multiple and heterogeneous dimensions that characterize nanotechnology by analyzing the numerous modalities through which different stakeholders and actors provide definitions attribute meaning and sense to nano enabled innovations. The chapters of the book attempt to highlight how nanotechnologies their discourse and their actual and potential implications cannot be isolated in laboratories factories markets and separate discussion arenas Also the volume examines how it is apparently not possible to bind and or confine the definition of nanotechnology by referring exclusively to present day research and applications as well as to geographical cultural and even disciplinary boundaries Considered together this collection of essays suggests that the societal experiment of nanotechnology has to be explored with a vocabulary that is not just scientific and technical in order to cross the frontiers between multiple domains actors identities translations and negotiation processes that occur in the nanotechnology field

Asuelime, Andrew Emmanuel Okem, 2017-09-29 A deepening ecological crisis is rearing its head in sub Saharan Africa as it faces a myriad of challenges in regards to the development of its energy sector The dirty now and clean up later approach to the environment has a strong appeal particularly because it is often thought of as the last place to try to edge in another priority especially if that priority is perceived by many to be an economic luxury Asuelime and Okem bring together a team of specialist contributors who investigate to what extent sub Saharan Africa has displayed foresight or politico economic integrity The book shows the state's ability to meet the demands of provision of energy in sub Saharan Africa has led to heavy investments in infrastructure transmission and distribution of energy to the citizens However the inefficiencies corruption and unhealthy bureaucratic challenges that accompany this have led urgent problems which will be thoroughly explored in this book The Political Economy of Energy in Sub Saharan Africa will be of interest to students and scholars of African Studies Development Studies political science and environment
