

The 2010 Health Care Reform Bill Essay

In March 2010, President Obama signed into law the 2010 Health Care Reform Bill. This reform is considered as one of the most expansive social legislation enacted in decades in the United States mainly because it is aimed at extending insurance coverage to approximately 30 million additional Americans. The process of developing and passing this bill was very rigorous with many emerging issues being linked to the entire decision-making process. This paper seeks to analyze the decision-making process and issues that were linked with this process during the development and passing of the Health Care Reform Bill.

The main sources of public health policies include the local, state, or federal legislation, regulations, as well as court rulings that are passed and given authority to govern the provision of health care services. Apart from public policies, key players in the private sector, such as hospitals and accrediting bodies can also come up with institutional or business policies that affect health care. The policy making process is made up of many different phases including the formulation, implementation, and evaluation phases. Each of the decision-making processes and issues that fall between the stages of developing and passing the health care reform bill are categorized within the formulation phase of a public policy. The public policy decision-making process is strongly connected to the political process in a country.

The 2010 Health Care Reforms Bill decision making process began in 2008 when Senate Finance Committee held numerous hearings with regard to the healthcare reforms between May 2008 and November 2008. After all the hearings had been made, the Senate Finance Committee released a comprehensive white paper with policy options based on the hearings that had been conducted and called for subsequent healthcare reforms to be made. In November 2008, there was an agreement between the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and pensions committee (HELP) in
