

The principles of PRINCE2

The project management framework known as PRINCE2 is based upon a set of principles. These principles are the bedrock and foundations upon which everything else in the framework is based.

Universal

PRINCE2 is based upon these principles for a very simple reason. By being principles-based, it means that the framework can be applied to any shape, size or type of project. In this way, the principles can be universally applied, both to a small in-house company project based here in London, or equally to a massive international aid project spanning many borders commissioned by the United Nations.

Best practices

These principles have also been proven in practice over many years to be the most effective ways of managing projects i.e. they are based upon modern best practices in project management. This means they can be applied directly on projects and the project management team does not need to "re-invent the wheel" by creating their own project management method from scratch.

Empowering

The principles are also empowering to the project management team because they can give them added confidence and an ability to shape and manage their projects.

So, let's take a look at each of these principles in turn.

The first principle of PRINCE2 emphasises that there must always be a viable Business Case driving the project.

Business Case

The Business Case is updated throughout the project, as well as being used when starting up the project. If the factors underlying the Business Case change in such a way that the expected benefits are no longer likely to be realised, then the project should be closed prematurely.

Changes detrimental to the Business Case are often linked to the economy; for example, the recent worldwide recession led to many major building projects being brought to a halt.

This principle also applies if the project is compulsory (e.g. required to achieve compliance with new legislation) - the organization will require justification of the particular project chosen, as there may be several options available that yield different costs, benefits and risks.

The Business Case contains the reasons for running the project, with the expected benefits documented in measureable terms. In PRINCE2, the benefits expected from a project are subject to tolerances; if they drop below those tolerances, then the Business Case is no longer viable.

For example, if a project is mandated for the purpose of making a profit, then the mandate should identify the threshold of profit that determines the viability of the Business Case. If the expected profit drops below that threshold, due to changes in circumstances, the project should be stopped.

According to PRINCE2, project work should be broken down into stages, for ease of manageability. The Business Case is updated by the Project Manager at the end of a stage and the Project Board will be presented with this updated documentation when they assess the project at a stage boundary.

At a stage boundary the Board will decide if the Business Case remains viable, before authorising the plan for the next stage. If the viability of the Business Case raises concerns during a stage, a project issue can be raised to bring the matter to the attention of the Board as soon as possible, and before the end of stage assessment.

In the event of a project being closed prematurely, the organization must ensure that lessons are learned about the cause of the failure. In addition, every attempt should be made to derive maximum benefit from any outputs and outcomes that had been achieved by the project.
