AS & A Level Business Studies Through Diagrams Andrew Gillespie, 2001 Philosophy for Children Through the Secondary Curriculum Lizzy Lewis, Nick Chandley, 2012-05-17 Philosophy for Children P4C is an approach to learning and teaching that aims to develop reasoning and judgement. Students learn to listen to and respect their peers' opinions, think creatively and work together to develop a deeper understanding of concepts central to their own lives and the subjects they are studying. With the teacher adopting the role of facilitator, a true community develops in which rich and meaningful dialogue results in enquiry of the highest order. Each chapter is written by a leading P4C expert and provides an introduction to the relationship between P4C and the subject area, lesson stimuli and activities for extending and deepening students' thinking. The book includes guidance on how to embed P4C in curriculum subjects in a crowded and demanding secondary curriculum timetable, troubleshooting advice for the teacher-turned-facilitator, a companion website containing useful links, downloadable resources and material to display on your interactive whiteboard. Edited and collated by the UK's leading P4C organisation, this book introduces a rationale for using and adapting P4C in the secondary curriculum.

Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies Steve Connolly, 2025-05-20 For traditional subjects such as History, Art and Science, debate about the nature of knowledge in the school curriculum has produced a growing literature on the relationship between disciplinary knowledge and what is taught in schools. For newer subjects, however, the path is less clear. Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies is the first book to grapple with the question for these two related subjects. Steve Connolly argues that while Media and Film Studies each have a clear epistemological base, consideration of craft skills alongside factual knowledge and criticality has led to the development of different criteria for what constitutes valuable knowledge than in traditional school subjects. The book problematises this difference through a genealogy of both subjects as they appear in the English school curriculum, charting their historical and disciplinary origins within that system. In so doing, it finds that far from being new subjects, Media and Film Studies have parallel histories with more established subjects. Using a range of primary and secondary data, including interviews with media and film teachers, case studies and historical sources, the book provides an account of knowledge and knowing in school Media Studies and Film Studies which both consolidates existing views and proposes some new perspectives.

Praise for Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies The status of Media and Film Education has been contested for a very long time. In this book, Steve Connolly drills down beneath the surface level of debates about academic rigour and what education is for. He analyses how knowledge works in these subjects, how it differs from other educational processes, why this is important and how this matters for more recent endeavours in media literacy. No future conversation about the value of these subjects in education should begin without attention to this rich contribution. Julian McDougall, Bournemouth University

Criminal Law Tony Storey, Alan Lidbury, 2012-12-06 This textbook covers the Criminal Law option of the A level law syllabus and provides an ideal introduction for anybody coming to the subject for the first time Criminal Law covers all A level syllabuses specification requirements and is written by the principal examiner and principal assistant examiner in Criminal Law for one of the major examination boards It contains extensive case illustration and a range of examination related questions and activities There is a special focus on key skills and on the new synoptic assessment syllabus requirements This fully updated third edition builds upon the success of the first two editions It provides coverage of OCR and AQA specifications is endorsed by OCR for use with the Criminal Law option includes new OCR synoptic assessment source materials for use in examinations in June 2005 with additional guidance discusses new legislation and cases including Sexual Offences Act 2003 Andrews Bollom G and R Rowland Safi and others Weller Z Science Education For Citizenship Ratcliffe, Mary, Grace, Marcus, 2003-07-01 This is overwhelmingly a valuable book particularly in the context of science education in the UK It is a book that deserves to be read more widely by science teachers particularly those who seek not simply to extend their repertoire of teaching techniques but who wish to place these techniques upon a sound academic footing Educational Review I have greatly enjoyed reading through Science Education for Citizenship It is extremely informative and contains much of value We will definitely be putting it on our MA in Science Education reading list Dr Michael Reiss Institute of Education University of London This innovative book explores the effective teaching and learning of issues relating to the impact of science in society Research case studies are used to examine the advantages and problems as science teachers try new learning approaches including ethical analysis use of media reports peer group decision making discussions and community projects This book offers practical guidance in devising learning goals and suitable learning and assessment strategies helps teachers to provide students with the skills and understanding needed to address these multi faceted issues explores the nature and place of socio scientific issues in the curriculum and the support necessary for effective teaching Science Education for Citizenship supports science teachers citizenship teachers and other educators as they help students to develop the skills and understanding to deal with complex everyday issues Why Teach Philosophy in Schools? Jane Gatley, 2023-03-09 This book presents a case for teaching philosophy in schools It develops two original arguments for teaching philosophy to all students at some point over the course of their education Gatley argues that teaching philosophy is the best way to help students to think clearly using ordinary or non specialist concepts such as good truth or happiness She goes on to argue that teaching philosophy is the best way to help students to make sense of the different conceptual schemes used by different school subjects Combining these two arguments Gatley suggests that these two roles for philosophy are central to the task of educating people and so philosophy ought to be included on school curricula Building on the work of philosophers of education including Richard Stanley Peters Harry Brighouse Matthew Lipman Mary Midgley and Martha Nussbaum the book covers a range of topics including Philosophy for Children P4C the aims education religious education curriculum design and education policy

Examination Physical Education Trent D. Brown, Dawn Penney, 2017-09-05 In recent decades physical education has moved from the margins redefining itself as an academic subject An important component of this transformation has been the introduction of high stakes examinations at key points in a student s school career and the emergence of examination physical education as the dominant paradigm in many educational systems around the world This book is the first to explore the growing international literature on examination physical education and draw on research to extend the political academic and professional debates around the subject to explore its limitations and possibilities Addressing key topics such as curriculum development assessment methods and teacher education it seeks to assess how our existing knowledge of examination physical education can be best translated into pedagogical practice in the classroom Complementing other texts in the Routledge Studies in Physical Education and Youth Sport Series it makes an original and informed contribution to current discussions of physical education Examination Physical Education Policy Practice and Possibilities is important reading for any student researcher or teacher educator with an interest in physical education sports pedagogy and education policy

Defining Literary Criticism Carol Atherton,2005-09-27 Outlining the controversies that have surrounded the academic discipline of English Literature since its institutionalization in the late nineteenth century this important book draws on a range of archival sources It addresses issues that are central to the identity of academic English how the subject came into existence and what makes it a specialist discipline of knowledge in a manner that illuminates many of the crises that have affected the development of modern English studies Atherton also addresses contemporary arguments about the teaching of literary criticism including an examination of the reforms to A Level literature
