West V. Love ,1984 Seventh Circuit Digest

,1987 Includes topical index alphabetical case index federal rules index and a synopsis section Rethinking Criminal Law Theory Francois Tanguay-Renaud, James Stribopoulos, 2012-01-10 In the last two decades the philosophy of criminal law has undergone a vibrant revival in Canada The adoption of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms has given the Supreme Court of Canada unprecedented latitude to engage with principles of legal moral and political philosophy when elaborating its criminal law jurisprudence Canadian scholars have followed suit by paying increased attention to the philosophical foundations of domestic criminal law Because of Canada's leadership in international criminal law both at the level of the International Criminal Court and of specific war crimes tribunals they have also begun to turn their attention to international criminal law per se This collection seeks to bring all these Canadian voices together for the first time and evidence the fact that criminal law theory is no longer to be associated exclusively with the older British German and American traditions The topics covered include questions of philosophical methodology the legitimate scope of domestic and international criminalization rationales for criminal law defences in both domestic and international law the philosophical underpinnings of specific crimes and forms of joint responsibility as well as the theorization of criminal procedure and evidence law

ENDORSEMENTS In continental Europe academic commentary on the criminal law has long manifested large philosophical ambitions Less so in common law countries where the dominance of jury trial and the piecemeal development of case law together with the famously robust attitudes of common lawyers have militated against detailed philosophical engagement with doctrine Over the last 20 years or so however new generations of philosophically literate lawyers and legally informed philosophers have overcome the historic resistance Nowhere more so it seems than in Canada where the common law and civilian traditions meet In Rethinking Criminal Law Theory Francois Tanguay Renaud and James Stribopoulos have joined with 14 talented Canadian colleagues to showcase the tremendous breadth and depth of their contemporary national contribution to the subject Ranging across topics as diverse as emergency obscenity and insanity these essays without exception insightful and penetrating set a high standard for the rest of us to aspire to John Gardner University of Oxford

Rethinking Criminal Law Theory is an excellent collection of essays demonstrating the vigour creativity and range of Canadian criminal justice scholarship It covers a wide range of problems and issues both in the domestic and the international context Core questions are examined in depth and new questions are brought to the fore I recommend it very highly to criminal lawyers and philosophers of the criminal law Professor Victor Tadros University of Warwick

Rethinking Criminal Law Theory is packed with outstanding contributions from criminal law theorists who are among the best not only in Canada but in the whole English speaking world Broad and deep in its coverage the collection offers fresh approaches to a wide range of cutting edge issues in the field It provides a resource readers will come back to repeatedly Stuart Green Professor of Law and Justice Nathan L Jacobs Scholar Rutgers University Special Assistant United States Attorney United States.
