

A Personal Philosophy

By Bob Krone

Dedicated to Mae Sue Krone, whose love, guidance, and partnership nurtured its evolution

Abstract

After a life of diverse professional activities, including earning a doctor of philosophy degree and editing the Journal of Space Philosophy, Bob Krone decides to describe the origins and evolution of his own values and philosophy.

Keywords: values, learning, self-examination, teaching, leadership, academics, systems, space, philosophy, humanity.

Introduction

Michel Montaigne (1533-1592) is credited with inventing the essay form with his classic work Essais (1st Edition, 1580). He lived and reworked his essays in a French rural retreat after being the Mayor of Bordeaux from 1581-1585. Since then, essays have traditionally been short statements feeling their way towards expression of what needs a far wider space to exhaust. Using the Montaigne essay style here, I have not provided specific references for statements throughout this article. Interested readers can find my complete resume/curriculum vitae at www.bobkrone.com/node/103.

Every human being has a personal life philosophy. It was formed by a complex lifetime mix of genetics, environment, and learning over time. A small percentage of humans have explicitly documented their own philosophy as an analysis of their own value systems, or to understand the values, sources, and influences on their beliefs over time. My definition of values – created during my doctoral studies at UCLA – is “Values are principles or things preferred.” That is different from the economic definition of value, which is usually oriented toward quantitative worth. Philosophy and values are not synonymous, but have many commonalities. Philosophy is oriented toward total life meaning, while values form the components of that totality.

Most people’s personal philosophy is created and evolves from experiences and just living, not from conscious reflection and design. Is that not the best way to develop philosophy? For some, it may be. But the belief I bring to this article is that individual, family, group, organization, agency, business, society, national, international, and human existence would improve with wiser and more explicit self-examination of values and philosophy. There is value in knowing answers to the questions: What do I believe? and How should my beliefs impact my behavior?

Dr. Paul R. Cone was my mentor for two university faculty appointments – the University of Southern California in 1975 and La Sierra University, Riverside, California in 1992. Paul was a wise, compassionate, and brilliant leader in both academics and business. One of the many lessons I learned from Paul Cone he had condensed into

Introduction to Human Development and Family Studies Bridget A. Walsh, Dana A. Weiser, Lydia DeFlorio, Melissa M. Burnham, 2017-03-31 Introduction to Human Development and Family Studies is the first text to introduce human development and family studies HDFS as inextricably linked areas of study giving students a complex yet realistic view of individuals and families. Pioneers of research paradigms have acknowledged that the family is one setting in which human development occurs. Moreover, in many academic programs the lines of these two disciplines blur and much work is inherently multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary. This book helps to fortify an understanding of HDFS and subareas within it. Vignettes from current HDFS students as well as new professionals an overview of the lifespan stage s within the family context a wide description of research methods and applications current policy issues relevant to the area and discussions of practice careers coupled with strategies for pursuing specializations or careers in the area are hallmarks of this textbook. Introduction to Human Development and Family Studies is essential reading for students new to the major and minor wanting to know What is HDFS Who are the people involved in HDFS Why is HDFS important How does theory and research inform work in HDFS What does the pursuit of being an ethical professional require What are the key areas in HDFS. Incredibly user friendly both on the page and online the text also features the following resources Chapter Summaries where the main points of each chapter are pinpointed at the end of every chapter for review and study Key Terms listed and defined within the margins of every chapter a complete Glossary at the end of the text and Flashcards online for additional review and study Challenge Integration section at the end of each chapter that underscores concepts from the chapter and draws connections between content presented in other chapters Journal Questions to encourage reflection about the content and encourage thinking about some of the content coupled with students own experiences Suggested Resources that lists relevant websites books articles and video links for further study A Closer Look at Applied Experiences Appendix outlines the internship process and shows how the internship experience can be meaningful and useful and a Consuming Research Appendix that focuses on what it means to be a consumer of research the knowledge and skills consumers need and considerations for transitioning from a consumer of research to a producer of research Spa Bodywork Anne Williams, 2007 This textbook guides massage therapists through each step of delivering a spa treatment from consideration of the indications and contraindications to scope of practice issues supplies room set up specific procedure steps and ideas for integrating massage techniques spa products and enhancing accents While wet room treatments are discussed the focus is on dry room treatments which can be delivered in a wider variety of settings More than 250 full color photographs illustrate each technique and treatment Treatment Snapshot boxes provide a quick overview of the treatment before the detailed step by step procedures section Sanitation Boxes offer clean up and sanitation tips Sample Treatments include promotional descriptions product recommendations and recipes for creating inviting smell scapes Introduction to Human Development and Family Science Bridget A. Walsh, Dana A. Weiser, 2024-10-03 Now in its second edition Introduction to Human Development and Family Science was the first text to introduce human development and family studies HDFS as inextricably linked areas of study. Pioneers of research paradigms have acknowledged that the family is one setting in which human development occurs and much work is inherently multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary. This book helps to fortify an understanding of HDFS and subareas within it. Key features include: Chapters aligned with Certified Family Life Educator CFLE Guidelines; An applied focus with vignettes exploring diverse family structures and human experience; a brand new appendix with helpful tips to encourage the effective utilization of research; Discussion of the wide variety of career paths for HDFS students; Rich pedagogical features including Challenge Integration sections bringing together content from all chapters; Journal Questions encouraging reflection on content as well as personal experience and Suggested Resources listing relevant websites, books, articles, and video links for further study. Incredibly user friendly, this is essential reading for students new to Human Development and Family Science. A fully developed Instructor and Student Website includes flashcards, self-testing quizzes, and discussion questions for students as well as activities, lecture slides, test banks, and video recommendations for instructors.

Developing Portfolios in Education Ruth S. Johnson, J. Sabrina Mims-Cox, Adelaide Doyle-Nichols, 2009-07-21 Developing Portfolios in Education: A Guide to Reflection, Inquiry, and Assessment, Second Edition, takes preservice and inservice teachers through the process of developing a professional portfolio. It is designed to teach readers how traditional and electronic portfolios are defined, organized, and evaluated. The text also helps teachers to use their portfolios as an action research tool for reflection and professional development.

Community and Public Health Education Methods: A Practical Guide Robert J. Bensley, Jodi Brookins-Fisher, 2023-11-29 This text teaches students to effectively communicate health education messages and positively influence the norms and behaviors of both individuals and communities. Written by and for health education specialists, this text explores the methods used by health educators, including didactic techniques designed to guide others toward the pursuit of a healthy lifestyle.

The Turtle Hypodermic of Sickenpods David Solway, 2000 David Solway describes the betrayal of the ancient covenant between teacher and student, the loss of passion on one side and eagerness on the other, to the detriment of us all.
