Disorder and the Disinformation Society Jonathan Paul Marshall, James Goodman, Didar Zowghi, Francesca da Rimini, 2015-04-17 This book is the first general social analysis that seriously considers the daily experience of information disruption and software failure within contemporary Western society Through an investigation of informationalism defined as a contemporary form of capitalism it describes the social processes producing informational disorder While most social theory sees disorder as secondary pathological or uninteresting this book takes disordering processes as central to social life The book engages with theories of information society which privilege information order offering a strong counterpoint centred on disinformation Disorder and the Disinformation Society offers a practical agenda arguing that difficulties in producing software are both inherent to the process of developing software and in the social dynamics of informationalism It outlines the dynamics of software failure as they impinge on of information workers and on daily life explores why computerized finance has become inherently self disruptive asks how digital enclosure and intellectual property create conflicts over cultural creativity and disrupt informational accuracy and scholarship and reveals how social media can extend but also distort the development of social movements

The Cloud Revolution Mark P. Mills, 2021-11-02 The conventional wisdom on how technology will change the future is wrong Mark Mills lays out a radically different and optimistic vision for what's really coming The mainstream forecasts fall into three camps One considers today as the new normal where ordering a ride or food on a smartphone or trading in bitcoins is as good as it's going to get Another foresees a dystopian era of widespread digitally driven job and business destruction A third believes that the only technological revolution that matters will be found with renewable energy and electric cars But according to Mills a convergence of technologies will instead drive an economic boom over the coming decade one that historians will characterize as the Roaring 2020s It will come not from any single big invention but from the confluence of radical advances in three primary technology domains microprocessors materials and machines Microprocessors are increasingly embedded in everything Materials from which everything is built are emerging with novel almost magical capabilities And machines which make and move all manner of stuff are undergoing a complementary transformation Accelerating and enabling all of this is the Cloud history's biggest infrastructure which is itself based on the building blocks of next generation microprocessors and artificial intelligence We've seen this pattern before The technological revolution that drove the great economic expansion of the twentieth century can be traced to a similar confluence one that was first visible in the 1920s a new information infrastructure telephony new machines cars and power plants and new materials plastics and pharmaceuticals Single inventions don't drive great long cycle booms It always takes convergent revolutions in technology's three core spheres information materials and machines Over history that's only happened a few times We have wrung much magic from the technologies that fueled the last long boom But the great convergence now underway will ignite the 2020s And this time unlike any previous historical epoch we have the Cloud amplifying everything The next long boom starts now

Swanson, Marianne Elisabeth Lien, Gro B. Ween, 2018-09-27 The domestication of plants and animals is central to the familiar and now outdated story of civilization's emergence Intertwined with colonialism and imperial expansion the domestication narrative has informed and justified dominant and often destructive practices Contending that domestication retains considerable value as an analytical tool the contributors to Domestication Gone Wild reengage the concept by highlighting sites and forms of domestication occurring in unexpected and marginal sites from Norwegian fjords and Philippine villages to British falconry cages and South African colonial townships Challenging idioms of animal husbandry as human mastery and progress the contributors push beyond the boundaries of farms fences and cages to explore how situated relations with animals and plants are linked to the politics of human difference and conversely how politics are intertwined with plant and animal life Ultimately this volume promotes a novel decolonizing concept of domestication that radically revises its Euro and anthropocentric narrative Contributors Inger Anneberg Natasha Fijn Rune Flikke Frida Hastrup Marianne Elisabeth Lien Knut G Nustad Sara Asu Schroer Heather Anne Swanson Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing Mette Vaarst Gro B Ween Jon Henrik Ziegler Remme Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E. Vaughn, 2022-02-07 In Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E Vaughn examines climate adaptation against the backdrop of ongoing processes of settler colonialism and the global climate change initiatives that seek to intervene in the lives of the world's most vulnerable Her case study is Guyana in the aftermath of the 2005 catastrophic flooding that ravaged the country's Atlantic coastal plain The country's ensuing engineering projects reveal the contingencies of climate adaptation and the capacity of flooding to shape Guyanese expectations about racial inequality Analyzing the coproduction of race and vulnerability Vaughn details why climate adaptation has implications for how we understand the past and the continued human settlement of a place Such understandings become particularly apparent not only through experts and ordinary citizens disputes over resources but in their attention to the ethical practice of technoscience over time Approaching climate adaptation this way Vaughn exposes the generative openings as well as gaps in racial thinking for theorizing climate action environmental justice and more broadly future life on a warming planet Duke University Press Scholars of Color First Book Award recipient

Carbon Capture and Storage Ian Havercroft, Richard Macrory Hon KC, Richard Stewart, 2018-02-08 Carbon Capture and Storage CCS is increasingly viewed as one of the most significant ways of dealing with greenhouse gas emissions Critical to realising its potential will be the design of effective legal regimes at national and international level that can handle the challenges raised but without stifling a new technology of potential great public benefit These include long term liability for storage regulation of transport the treatment of stored carbon under emissions trading regimes issues of property ownership and increasingly the sensitivities of handling the public engagement and perception Following its publication in 2011 Carbon Capture and Storage quickly became required reading for all those interested in or engaged by the need to implement regulatory approaches to CCS The intervening years have seen significant developments globally Earlier legislative models are now in force providing important lessons for future legal design Despite these developments the growth of the technology has been slower in some jurisdictions than others This timely new edition will update and critically assess these updates and provide context for the development of CCS in 2018 and beyond
