Cretaceous Climate Events and Short-Term Sea-Level Changes M. Waple, M.B. Hart, B. Sames, I.O. Yilmaz, 2020 Sea level constitutes a critical planetary boundary for geological processes and human life. Sea level fluctuations during major greenhouse phases are still enigmatic and strongly discussed in terms of changing climate systems. The geological record of the Cretaceous greenhouse period provides a deep time view on greenhouse phase Earth system processes that facilitates a much better understanding of the causes and consequences of global geologically short-term sea level changes. In particular, Cretaceous hothouse periods can serve as a laboratory to better understand a near future greenhouse Earth. This volume presents high-resolution sea level records from globally distributed sedimentary archives of the Cretaceous involving a large group of scientists from the International Geoscience Programme IGCP 609. Marine to non-marine sedimentary successions were analysed for revised age constraints, the correlation of global palaeoclimate shifts, and sea level changes tested for climate-driven cyclicities and correlated within a high-resolution stratigraphic framework of the Geological Timescale. For hothouse periods, the hypothesis of significant global groundwater-related sea level change, i.e. aquifer eustasy as a major process, is reviewed and substantiated.

Master the GED: The Mathematics Test Peterson's, 2012-06-29 Peterson's Master the GED The Mathematics Test will thoroughly prepare you for both parts of the GED Math Test.
