The view of the house in the morning and evening
The view of the house in the morning and evening

The Stahl House and its surrounding landscape, which featured the natural structure of the hillside, characterized the new house which Henry built for himself and C. H. Stahl. Built in 1960, it is a house designed by John Lautner in Case Study House No. 10. It became the most famous house of the progressive and was later added to the Museum of Contemporary Art's Temporary Contemporary building in Los Angeles as part of the 1970s exhibit "Museum for Modern Living: History and Legacy of the Case Study House Program". Thus it was the only Case Study House to be built here.

Henry described the position of the house, high above Sunset Boulevard, as being "on an eagle's nest, in the mountainside". Lautner and Stahl built their own life and lived in the house while staying in an apartment on an opposite hillside. The house was designed to be there and the purchase was completed in 1960 and a half hour. Stahl built, as Henry thought, he had some idea of how he wanted the house to be. "The house seemed a clear and undisturbed view of the landscape and this is the only one we could do it. It's not a hillside. It's all glass," he explained. "All the way around, except for the house which is solid. . . . The house side is all glass for the landscape. It has got a magnificent view. It's a natural statement. The view is important. The house is supposed to be in with the environment and what is it. You don't see the house when you're in it, you see the view and you're living with the environment, the nature. . . . That's how Case Study House No. 10 was designed and why it was designed."
