• Stressors are events, both good and bad, that cause stress. Stressors can be anything from a bad grade on a test to a natural disaster. Stressors can be physical, emotional, or social. Stressors can be acute or chronic. Acute stressors are short-lived, while chronic stressors are long-lasting. Stressors can be controllable or uncontrollable. Controllable stressors are those that you can do something about, while uncontrollable stressors are those that you cannot do anything about. Stressors can be positive or negative. Positive stressors are those that lead to positive outcomes, while negative stressors are those that lead to negative outcomes. Stressors can be a source of growth and learning, or they can be a source of pain and suffering. It is important to recognize stressors and to develop coping strategies to deal with them.
